NEW DEAL LAKE SCHEME FOUGHT AS BRAINSTORM

Farmers in Illinois Battle for Homes.

West Frankfort, Ill., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—An army of workmen is busy on the federal Crab Orchard lake project while Williamson county farmers, who have refused to vacate their lands to make way for the lake, are awaiting the outcome of condemnation proceedings. A huge dam is being built to create the first of a chain of three lakes having an area of 8,500 acres.

Government officials have estimated that the project will cost $2,500,000. The principal reason for the program, according to New Deal Congressman Kent E. Keller, is to "bl... he the breath of industrial life into the southern Illinois coal field." Keller said that the lake will offer possibilities for the development of a little Ruhr valley.

[The Ruhr valley, an area near the Belgian border, is the principal nerve center of industrial Germany. It is the source of much of the nation's iron and coal production. The valley became a bone of contention in 1923 when French and Belgian troops occupied it after Germany defaulted on her world war reparations payments. Control of the area was returned to Germany in 1925.]

Project Termed Brainstorm.

Frank E. Trobaugh, West Frankfort attorney representing more than a score of farmers who are challenging the government's right to take their farms, declared that the lake project is just another New Deal brainstorm.

Many of the farm homes involved, Trobaugh said, have been in the same families since they were settled. Farmers who are fighting condemnation contend that the lake will serve no purpose that will justify the forced acquisition of their homes.

Trobaugh said that the area which the government seeks to acquire includes between 700 and 800 farm homes, twenty business houses, sixty miles of roadway, two coal mines, and fifteen cemeteries.

The first dam, 3,000 feet long and 450 feet wide, is 95 per cent completed. It is one mile south of state highway 13 on the Williamson-Jackson county line, and will impound the waters of Crab Orchard creek and create a lake 8½ miles long parallel to the highway.

Route Will Be Flooded.

Two more dams will be constructed to impound tributary streams in the the little Ozark foothills, six miles to the south. The lakes will take their water supply from the hills and a drainage area of 215 square miles extending along the highway for twenty miles east of the county line.

Because portions of the state highway between Marion and Carbondale will be flooded, it will be necessary to move four miles of the slab half a mile north, according to Charles Hamilton, project manager.

The federal government, because of the overflow that will be created in the area, must acquire every farm along the highway for a distance of four miles east of the Jackson county line, Hamilton said. He said that plans for the lake project contemplate federal purchase of 27,750 acres of land, of which 12,500 acres already have been acquired.

Land Brings $15 an Acre.

Hamilton said that much of the acreage involved is submarginal, eroded land. Most of the farms in Grassy township were bought for $15 per acre, he said.

In one condemnation case that has been decided the jury fixed a price of $12.50 an acre for land which government appraisers had valued at $11.25. Forty-seven other condemnation cases are pending in federal court.

Hamilton said the lake project grew out of unsuccessful efforts of southern Illinois civic groups to obtain the canalization of the Big Muddy river. A subsequent study of the Big Muddy valley by I. E. R. C. officials and University of Illinois engineers resulted in a recommendation for a series of dams, primarily for flood control and water conservation, he said. The Crab Orchard lake development was based upon that study.

While government officials visualize Crab Orchard lake as opening the way for an industrial development centering on coal consuming power plants, the project was originated as

Hungarian Catholic Bishop Forbids 'Lohengrin' March

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 4.—Bishop Shvoy of the Fejervar diocese has forbidden the playing of Wagner's "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" wedding marches in all Roman Catholic churches. The bishop considers both inappropriate because Wagner's march introduces an episode marked by the cooling of connubial bliss, while Mendelssohn's music accompanies the transformation of a bridegroom into an ass.

COLONISTS MOB ITALIANS; BACK FRANCE IN ROW

Angered by Rome's Cry for New Lands.

TUNIS, Tunisia, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Blood was spilled today in an angry demonstration by 500 French colonists against Italy's apparent campaign for Tunisia, French North African protectorate.

Arrows point to scenes of rioting.

Police restored order after several skirmishes in which an undetermined number of rioters was injured.

An Italian bookstore was wrecked when the rioters broke in through the windows, seized newspapers and books, and flung them into the streets, where other rioters tore them to shreds.

Windows were smashed in the Italian tourist office and raiders broke into the offices of the Italian Line and Italian newspaper Unione Fascista.

Prisoners Included Italians.

Fifteen persons were arrested. Police asserted their prisoners included two Italians who were armed, an Italian anarchist who arrived in Tunis recently from Spain, and the secretary of the communist party in the capital.

Several Italian residents who appeared on the streets with Fascist insignia on their coats were forced by the crowds to remove the emblems.

Most of the rioters, officers said, were French, Corsicans, and Tunisians.

Cries of "Long live France!" and "Down with Italy!" echoed down the narrow streets of the capital as the demonstrators paraded through the city under heavy police guard.

Avert Attack on Consulate.

A projected attack on the Italian consulate was prevented by strong police reinforcements.

Despite their resistance, however, they were not able to keep the crowd sufficiently under control to prevent Italian posters from being ripped down wherever they were found in the city.

The parade was held despite an official ruling against demonstrations of any kind. This ruling was issued after members of the Italian chamber of deputies interrupted a speech of Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, in Rome last Wednesday, with shouts of "Tunisia! Tunisia!" "Corsica!" and similar slogans.

Representatives of Arab delegations in the Tunisian parliament told French authorities they would back action by the French government to prevent Tunisia from coming under Italian administration. The delegations assured the French that the Arabs would fight, if necessary, under the French flag.

32 Parolees Sent Back to Prison

GOING TO HAVE TROUBLE HITCHING UP

New Inquiry Is Opened in Beauty's Death

From a tangled maze of conflicting evidence investigators for the coroner's office sought last night to sift the true story of Jacqueline Kinder's death. She was found dead last Tuesday in her expensive apartment at 10 West Elm street, under circumstances that indicated she had died from poison.

Mrs. Kinder was an attractive brunette, 34 years old. She had many friends. The apartment contained furnishings estimated to have a value of $20,000. Mrs. Kinder owned an automobile, paid her rent regularly, and seemingly was in good health.

Questions for an Inquiry.

The investigators are asking: Why did this woman kill herself? Or did she kill herself? What has become of her jewelry, of her $3,500 fur coat and her $1,500 fox fur scarf? Where are her letters? Why were no articles of clothing discovered in the flat?

At 6:10 p. m. Tuesday Mrs. Kinder's brother, Lawrence Hagerman, a north side tavern owner, called to see her. Hagerman reported later that she was in excellent spirits and wanted him to have her car put in good shape so she could take a trip to California.

Her husband lives in that state. His name is Cecil Kinder. Twelve years ago he was a partner with his brother, Clifford, in an extensive bootlegging business. At one time Clifford rated a millionaire, and much of the silver and dinner service in the flat was marked with his initials. Cecil Kinder is in poor health and went to California in the hope of recovery.

Testifies at Inquest.

On the night of Mrs. Kinder's death Hagerman stayed only a few minutes. A little later Miss Judith Delman, a red haired young woman said to be an actress, entered. She shared the flat with Mrs. Kinder. Her story was told at the opening session of the inquest.

She said she heard Mrs. Kinder talking on the telephone. She was saying good-by. When she finished she told Miss Delman: "I've taken an overdose of the sleeping medicine."

Miss Delman insisted that she take measures to combat the drug.

"No," Mrs. Kinder said, "just put the 'Moonlight Sonata' on the phonograph. It brings back memories."

Produces Farewell Note.

While the piece was being played she became unconscious. She died soon afterward. Miss Delman produced her farewell note addressed to her husband. It read:

"My dearest one. Good-by, darling; you've given me such supreme happiness I die loving you for it. I alone know just what you mean to me. It is just too unfortunate. I simply can't go on. Without you . . . no dice."

The inquest was continued to Dec. 22. It appeared at that time that the

FREED TO KILL AND ROB, COURT RECORDS SHOW

Praise Police Action in Catching Them.

[This is the first of a series of stories setting forth a few of the crimes committed by paroled convicts in the last few months. According to Chief of Detectives Sullivan, 50 per cent of the convicts continue to kill, rob, steal, and swindle while on parole. The Chicago crime commission says half of Chicago's crime is committed by parolees.]

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Thirty-two criminals—killers, gunmen, robbers, and burglars—set free by the Illinois parole board, were returned to prison by the Chicago police department in the last twelve months. Paroled convicts who return to lives of crime are known throughout the police department as "parole board mistakes."

The list of thirty-two was compiled from records for the year ending last Oct. 1. The criminals were convicted for a second time—and some of them for a third time—in the Criminal court of Cook county. Their latest crimes were committed while they supposedly were under the supervision of the parole board. Under the law as now on the books it is the parole board and not the trial judge that decides how long these criminals shall remain in prison.

Their Crimes as Parolees.

Of the thirty-two "parole board mistakes," one committed murder, Fourteen, in spite of the parole board's agents, committed robbery. One attempted murder and another attempted robbery. Five returned to a life of burglary and six committed larceny. One of the thirty-two became a moron of the most despicable type. Another took up swindling as an occupation and two were arrested and convicted of manslaughter. All were sentenced originally for crimes equally serious.

Frank J. Loesch, president emeritus of the Chicago Crime commission and advocate of a law which will permit the judges to fix minimum and maximum prison sentences, congratulated the police department yesterday upon the return to prison of thirty-two threats to Chicago safety. However, he declared he was not surprised by the crimes committed by the parolees.

"It was not unexpected," said Mr. Loesch. "Statistics foretold it. Criminals are not reformed by parole. We know the gunman will return to his gun and the burglar to his breaking and entering of our homes.

Parolees Most Dangerous.

"Let the public understand that these repeaters are experienced criminals, far more dangerous, far more clever than the ordinary type of law breaker; it will then know what a fine job the Chicago police department has done in jailing these public enemies."

Police Commissioner Allman was highly pleased with the department's record. Parolees are regarded as the most dangerous of criminal types because of their readiness to kill.

Mr. Loesch, Commissioner Allman, and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan are all advocates of a state law which will reduce the power of the parole board and increase the responsibility of judges who listen to the sworn evidence of a crime. The parole board may listen to hearsay evidence, the stories of sympathizing relatives and other extraneous information.

The Ward-Schnackenberg bill which was passed by both houses of the legislature at its last session and which would have permitted the judges to fix minimum and maximum sentences within the general minimums and maximums now set forth in the criminal statutes was vetoed by Gov. Horner.

New Passage Foreseen.

In view of the many crimes committed by parolees since the legislature adjourned, there seemed no doubt last night that the bill vetoed by Gov. Horner would be reintroduced in the legislature next month and that it will receive even greater backing than it did two years ago.

The difficulties of the police in rounding up the thirty-two "parole board mistakes" were enhanced by

Drinking Wife Called Major U.S. Problem

Alcoholism among women has increased 90 per cent since 1933, and among men and women as a whole it has risen only 42 per cent, according to Martin Nelson, secretary of the Keeley Institute, Dwight, Ill.

Mr. Nelson reported that 80 per cent of his women patients during the first eleven months of 1938 were married. Seventy-four per cent were housewives and 26 per cent were stenographers, secretaries, housekeepers, and others without occupational classifications.

Woman Inebriate Serious Problem.

And the reason, according to Mr. Nelson:

"Prohibition transferred drinking from the bar room to the living room and wives learned to drink. Repeal returned drinking to the bar room and the wives followed their husbands there. Today public complacency about women drinking at bars is making the problem of the woman inebriate tragically serious."

He believes that the increase shown at the 60 year old institute is proportionate to the increase in drinking among women throughout the country. Patients at the institute come from all over the United States, Nelson added.

30 Year Records Broken.

More patients—both men and women—were treated there from the end of 1935 through 1938 than at any other time in more than 30 years. But Mr. Nelson does not think this was merely because liquor is easy to get now.

"We feel that the country's improved financial condition has much to do with it," he said. "Our experience has covered four major depressions. We find that in times of prosperity the number of patients increases. During depressions it decreases."

Boy 'Dead' Ten Minutes Brought Back to Life

Reading, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Artificial respiration and a heart stimulant today revived Chester Kozlowski, 10 years old, after physicians said there had been no trace of heart action or breathing for ten minutes. The boy was rescued unconscious from a canal and rushed to a hospital. Although physicians despaired of his life, he was placed in a mechanical respirator. Then the doctors detected faint heart beats and further measures revived him.

500 MONKEYS START NEW LIFE ON ISLE IN INTERESTS OF SCIENCE

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 4.—A new life has begun on Santiago Island for 500 monkeys transferred there from India's jungles. The last leg of the 14,000 mile journey was completed today. The monkeys were taken ashore in cages from a barge after the animals had been removed from the School of Tropical Medicine at San Juan to the tiny island off the coast of Porto Rico.

In time the island will become a free range colony where monkeys may swing from tree to tree as much as in their native habitat. For the present the monkeys will remain in cages until all have undergone a series of tests to prove each is free of disease.

ITALY FORBIDS USE OF FOREIGN NAMES ON STAGE

ROME, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, pushed Italy's current campaign to become self-sufficient a step further today with a condemnation of the use of foreign sounding names by entertainers.

It charged Liliane, Elaine and Lylly, the stage names of three pert Italian café singers, with being offenders against the régime's nationalistic campaign.

Their offense in the newspaper's eyes consisted in assuming foreign sounding names at a time when the country is struggling to make itself independent in foreign importations. "Eat, drink, dress, and think Italian" are the watchwords in Italy's drive.

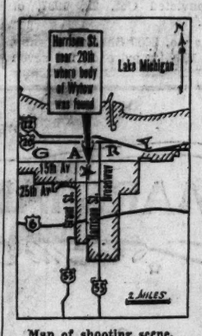
Peace Officer Slain on Ride in Gary Dunes

Gary police and Indiana state authorities yesterday launched an investigation into the mysterious slaying early in the day of Constable Andrew Wytow, 50 years old, for many years a Gary policeman.



Map of shooting scene.

Wytow's body was found, shot twice through the head, in his automobile, which had stopped on a lonely stretch of roadway in the dunes section of Gary.

The body was found by Pauline Atkins, colored, a Juvenile court agent, on Harrison street near 20th avenue.

Killed at the Wheel.

The right front door of Wytow's car was open and he was slumped over the wheel. He had been shot twice with a .45 caliber revolver. The bullets, which had passed through Wytow's head, were found in the car. The ignition switch had been shut off. Finger prints were found on the glass of the open front door.

There were powder stains, but no burns, on the victim's head. He apparently had been disarmed. The killer took Wytow's pistol with him when he fled. There had been no robbery.

Slain Without a Struggle.

Deputy Coroner Michael Shellhouse and police were convinced that Wytow was slain by some one he knew, some one who was riding with him in the car and whom he did not suspect. There were no signs of a struggle, although Wytow was a powerfully built man, weighing more than 300 pounds.

Wytow made many enemies by his heavy handed tactics as a policeman, his former comrades said yesterday. Past arrests were sifted for clews.

In his pockets were a number of eviction orders. Police planned to investigate the theory that a dispossessed tenant may have shot him.

Constable Wytow had lived in Gary twenty-five years. He was unmarried.

the fact that the police department was not informed the criminals were at large. No police district, not even the one in which the paroled criminal lived or committed his crime or crimes, is informed of a bad man's release. Often a policeman is startled to run upon a gunman or a burglar who is supposed to be in prison. In many instances the catching of a criminal in an act of crime is the first notice the police department has of a criminal's release.

How System Works.

The system is for the various prisons to send to the Chicago bureau of identification its monthly "outlist" which contains the names of all convicts freed, whether on parole, expiration of sentence, by court order, or by death, during the previous month. After considerable clerical work the names of the parolees are sorted out of this list and are entered on the criminals' records.

Several times in past years state authorities stopped giving this "out list" to the Chicago police department when free use was made of it by forwarding its contents to district stations. The theory of the state authorities was that if the information reached the departmental ranks and the public generally, the paroled prisoner, supposedly following an honest calling, might be harassed.

For this reason parole information, even after it is dug out of the state records, is held at the bureau of identification. Release of the information might again cut off the meager lists now coming from the state, police officials say.

CHICAGO LAWYER HEADS BROOKLYN GRAFT INQUIRY

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—William I. Conway, a former federal bureau of investigation agent who left that job to practice law in Chicago, will be chief investigator for John Harlan Amen, special prosecutor appointed to investigate charges of official corruption in Brooklyn. Amen announced the appointment tonight.

He said that Conway was selected with the indorsement and recommendation of J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation. Conway is 38 years old and lived at 232 Millbridge road, Riverside, Ill.

After resigning from federal service he became associated with Oscar E. Carlstrom, former attorney general of Illinois, in law practice at 10 S. La Salle street, Chicago. During the last year he also has been in charge of the Chicago office of the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives, prosecuting fraudulent claims for insurance.

CAR WITH BRAKES GETS THE BREAKS ON LOWER LEVEL

During the last few months the windows of many automobiles, parked on the lower level of Wacker drive, have been broken. As no attempts were made to ransack or to steal the cars, the window smashings puzzled police.

Yesterday they found a possible explanation. Morris Hurwitz, 24 years old, 3143 Wilson avenue, was arrested late Saturday after he broke the window of a parked automobile. His own car was behind that automobile.

Hurwitz, an insurance broker, explained the other car was parked with brakes on, and he could not free his own. He waited an hour for the owner, then, losing patience, smashed the window in the other car. His purpose, he explained, was to release the brakes. Police now believe that the numerous other window breakings originated similarly—each the work of an irritated motorist hemmed in by some other car with brakes on.

Thirty-Two 'Parole Board Mistakes'—a Lesson in Crime

Thirty-two vicious convicts, released by the state board of pardons and paroles, were convicted of qually vicious crimes and returned to the prison in the last year through the vigilance of Chicago police.

Parole office and police records of the convicts follow:

Harold Winston, colored, 27 East 31st street, 30. Sept. 17, 1938, one year to life for robbery with a gun. Previously served six months for carrying revolver. Paroled April 17, 1936; Maj. The law now fixes punishment for robbery with a gun at one year to life. Previously the penalty was ten years to life, but was changed by the legislature because a ten year minimum was believed by some to be too severe for first offenders. The Loesch plan is to allow the trial judge to fix a minimum and maximum term.

In commenting on the number of convictions in these cases, Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan said that in 1937 forty-nine parolees were sent back on new charges. During the first ten months of 1938 the convictions totaled only twenty, and the reduction, he said, is the result of having fewer parolees on the street than in the past.

The percentage of convictions may be higher for 1938 than for 1937, he said. All statistics show that parole, as an experiment, is a failure, he concluded.

mystery was so slight that the next session would be perfunctory. But Cecil Kinder flew here from California and announced he was not satisfied with the explanations.

"We were on the best of terms," he said. "I sent her money every month, and she intended to join me. I am not at all sure she was a suicide. And I want to know what became of the jewelry and the furs."

Meanwhile a coroner's toxicologist is examining the vital organs of Mrs. Kinder to determine the actual cause of death. Her body, by her husband's order and Mrs. Kinder's wish, was cremated.

FATE OF MRS. HAHN IN POISON SLAYING IS UP TO GOV. DAVEY

Gov. Davey.

Columbus, O., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Anna Marie Hahn of Cincinnati will know Tuesday whether she must die Wednesday night in the electric chair. Two previous dates for her execution have been set — March 10 and May 4. Stays were granted both times to permit her conviction for the poison murder of Jacob Wagner to be appealed to higher courts.

Daniel S. Earhart, executive secretary to Gov. Martin L. Davey, heard Mrs. Hahn's plea for clemency last Thursday. Her son, Oscar, 13 years old, appeared at the hearing and added his appeal. Prosecutor Carl W. Rich of Hamilton county, who helped convict her, argued against clemency.

Gov. Davey has said he would make a decision Tuesday after receiving his secretary's recommendation. The governor has said he will not grant another stay, as he does not intend to pass the problem on to his successor when he leaves office next month. Mrs. Hahn either will die or her sentence will be commuted to life imprisonment. In the four years he has been in office Davey has commuted only two death sentences. He never has had to pass on the death penalty for a woman.

COURTNEY MAY ANNOUNCE FOR MAYOR TODAY

Kelly Silent on His Plans; Clinnin Out.

BY PARKE BROWN.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney today may announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for mayor of Chicago. He declined yesterday to deny an apparently well authenticated report that for the last two weeks he has been telling intimate associates he will make his first open move in the primary battle today.

The prosecutor returned yesterday from Washington. On Saturday he talked with Secretary of the Interior Ickes about the mayoralty situation. They were together more than an hour. Since Ickes, as well as Courtney, is known to have mayoralty aspirations, it is believed they discussed the question of some form of joint assault on the present mayor, Edward J. Kelly.

Ickes Still Feels He Can Run.

Courtney refused to disclose what was said in the talk. Washington dispatches revealed some facts about it. They said Ickes still feels he can run despite legal opinions that he is barred by the one year residence requirement. Courtney is said to have told the secretary that nothing—not even Ickes' own candidacy—would stop him from entering the primary.

If Courtney announces he will be the first candidate of either party to enter the field. Mayor Kelly was told of the apparently certain indications that Courtney was about to start but he declined to comment or discuss his own possible candidacy.

The mayor, however, labeled as "all bosh" a newspaper story of an intricate partite agreement which would land him in some federal appointment, place Gov. Horner in the United States Supreme court, and elect Ickes mayor of Chicago.

Denies Federal Offer.

"Nobody talked to me about a federal appointment of any kind or about going to the United States senate. Such a proposal has never even been hinted by anybody qualified to discuss such a subject."

He was asked whether he could say when he will determine whether he will seek renomination.

"I haven't any idea when I'll decide," he replied. "I haven't anything to say at this time.

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, who has been mentioned as a mayoralty possibility, closed that subject yesterday with an announcement that he is ineligible because he is a resident of Glencoe.

Takes Indirect Slap at Ickes.

In making it, he took an indirect slap at Secretary Ickes who has been contending that he, Ickes, could qualify himself by transferring his legal residence from Winnetka to Chicago thirty days before the primary. Election law experts deny this contention, but Clinnin attacked the suggestion on its merits alone.

"This," he said in his announcement, "raises the issue of carpetbagger, which I do not choose to meet. Chicago has innumerable public spirited citizens with all of the requisite qualifications to fill the office of mayor to the satisfaction of the citizens regardless of political party."

SHOOTS BURGLARY SUSPECT.

Frank Gill, colored, 2978 Prairie avenue, was shot and seriously wounded early yesterday by a watchman who reported he was trying to break into a garage at 3129 South Parkway. Gill was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

Beauty Takes Life

MRS. HELEN CARR.

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Just as her estranged husband neared the end of a long search for her Mrs. Helen Cressman Carr, one time Follies beauty, died by gas in her Riverside drive apartment today.

She was the wife of Alexander Carr, comedian of the old "Potash and Perlmutter" team. After many unsuccessful attempts to find her during an eight year separation he had come to New York a few days ago hoping his opening in a night club this week would attract her notice.

Instead, after tucking her 12 year old daughter, Beverly, into bed late last night, police said, the former show girl stuffed a rug against the kitchen door, turned on the stove jets, and wrote a farewell note as the gas filled the room.

Hours later Carr was located and arrived at an undertaking parlor to find his child at her mother's bier.

CITY WELCOMES MUNDELEIN FROM ROME TOMORROW

A civic reception headed by Mayor Kelly will be given Cardinal Mundelein in the La Salle Street station as he returns tomorrow from Rome, where he officiated at rites which beatified Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, Chicago nun. Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago Park district, is in charge of the reception.

Hundreds of Boy Scouts who will form a guard of honor in the station concourse and 3,000 pupils from Chicago Catholic High schools will take part. Music will be furnished by the band from St. Mary's Training school, Des Plaines, and addresses of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Kelly, representatives of CISCA, Catholic student youth group, and a representative priest of the diocese. Also present will be 50 bishops and archbishops, here for the meeting of the Catholic Extension society, over which Cardinal Mundelein presides as chancellor.

Fifth Child, a Girl, Born to Countess of Paris

She is the wife of Prince Henri of Bourbon-Orleans, count of Paris and son of the Duke de Guise, exiled pretender to the French throne. The baby is their fifth child. They were married April 8, 1931, at Palmero, Sicily. Prince Henri recently made a secret airplane dash to Paris, where he appealed for the restoration of the monarchy.

HISTORIC RULING HELPS G. O. P. IN SPEAKER FIGHT

Melville Fuller Case Points Way to Victory.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Prompt action will be taken by the Republican state committee in the Illinois Supreme court if the state canvassing board meddles with the official county returns from the Nov. 8 election. Legal advisers have cited to the G. O. P. committee a precedent in a high court decision rich in historic interest.

In 1862 Melville W. Fuller, later to preside as chief justice of the United States Supreme court, was a Republican candidate for state representative from the 60th district. The returns showed him elected, but a canvassing board rejected the returns for one precinct. Fuller appealed directly to the state Supreme court, a writ of mandamus ordering his certification was issued, and he was seated.

Parallel with Present Case.

Lawyers say this case, which has been followed without deviation ever since Fuller's victory, parallels the case that would be filed if the present plans of the Democratic machine are carried out. Those plans call for the rejection of returns from enough precincts in southern Illinois to replace with Democrats three of the Republicans now counted in the G. O. P. majority of seventy-nine members.

Chairman A. K. Stiles and other county Republican leaders are concentrating attention so definitly on the state canvassing board's action that all consideration of candidates for the speakership has been dropped for the time being. Republicans will get the speakership only if they are able to preserve their legislative majority.

Court Is Explicit.

In the Melville W. Fuller case, the Supreme court was explicit in denying to canvassing boards any power beyond that of adding up the figures before them and announcing the results. In the Fuller case the board was a county board, but the law has been held to be the same in all canvassing bodies.

The statute directs that the state canvassing board is to canvass the votes given for the several offices and then directs that "the persons having the highest number of votes for the respective offices shall be declared duly elected."

Gets Her Children

MME. CALYPSO LIDDELL.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Mme. Calypso Baring Liddell, daughter of an English lord who called her English husband an "unmitigated snob" during a hearing over the custody of their four children, is preparing to return to London with them.

The husband, Guy Maynard, England's chief of civil intelligence brought a habeas corpus suit, alleging that his wife was an unfit person to retain custody of the children, Peter, 12 years old; Gay, 10; June, 9, and Maude, 8. In her answer she had said she wanted the children reared in the democratic atmosphere of the United States.

Circuit Judge Paul Barns approved a settlement of the suit in which Liddell was bound to seek release of his wife's sequestered fortune and the children from their status as wards in chancery.

Mme. Liddell is a daughter of the late Lord Revelstoke and his American wife and the niece of Pierre Lorillard, tobacco magnate.

LEG STRAP SAVES PILOT DANGLING FROM AIRPLANE

Brookline, Mass., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Tossed out of his airplane 1,800 feet in the air and dangling by a single leg strap while the plane hurtled toward the ground, Daniel Cleveland, 24 years old, of Somerville, cheated death today by a matter of seconds.

Cleveland, a licensed pilot, was attempting to take pictures when a door against which he was leaning gave way. A leg strap checked his fall and he managed to get back into his plane and right it.

"I don't know how far the plane dropped before I managed to pull myself into position to make a grab at the side of the plane," he said. "I don't know whether I did it or whether the plane lurching from side to side, threw me back into or near the seat."

Cleveland said he righted the plane immediately and returned to the airport.

REVOLT AGAINST ROOSEVELT'S PET DESIGNS GROWS

Warfare in Ranks of His Party Spreading.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will return to Washington on Tuesday to find a spreading state of warfare in the Democratic party in congress and what remains of his New Deal program in jeopardy.

In surprising numbers Democratic senators and representatives, returning for the opening of the 76th congress next month, are manifesting hostility to the appointment of radicals to office and to the passage of further radical legislation smacking of dictatorship.

If the President should renew his effort to obtain dictatorial power to reorganize the administrative branch of the government, as he recently said he would do, or should revive his measure to pack the Supreme court or otherwise subject the judicial branch to domination of the executive he will be courting another disastrous defeat at the hands of his own party.

In the case of the reorganization bill alone the votes are now in sight to adopt the Wheeler amendment, beaten in the current congress by one vote, which would require congressional approval of any changes in the administrative machinery made by the President.

Appointments Big Issue.

Also apparent is the strong sentiment among Democratic legislators for revision of the Wagner national labor relations act to place employers on an equal footing with employés, and for decentralization of the relief administration to a basis of state management with federal financial aid. If the President opposes these movements he will be in for a knockdown and dragout fight with his own party.

The attitude of the returning Democrats is on the whole reflective of the reverses sustained by the New Deal in the congressional and state elections last month. The President now finds himself decidedly on the defensive in whatever program he may propose to congress.

It is more than likely that the first showdown between the President and the anti-New Deal Democrats will come on senate confirmation of appointments to office he has made during the recess of congress and is about to make.

The most important appointment due to be made about the time that the new congress assembles on Jan. 3 is that of a successor to the late Associate Justice Benjamin Cardozo of the Supreme court. The man above all whom the President wants to appoint to this place is Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, the left wing Democrat who was defeated for reelection last month by the reaction against his tolerance of sitdown strikes, partiality for John Lewis' C. I. O. and other manifestations of the radicalism he espouses. Twice during the campaign the President went to the defense of Murphy, but all in vain.

Sentiment Against Murphy.

Mr. Roosevelt has been informed that if he appoints Murphy to the Supreme court he will precipitate a struggle with his own party in the senate, second in magnitude only to that in which he was worsted in his attempt to pack the court. The Democrats revolted by the thought of the appointment of a radical of Murphy's stripe to the Supreme court are confident that with the aid of the Republicans confirmation of the nomination could be defeated.

If unable to land his favorite on the Supreme court Mr. Roosevelt would like to get Gov. Murphy for his attorney general to succeed Homer S. Cummings, who recently resigned. He would stand a better chance of success in such case, for there is a greater disposition to allow the President to pick his own advisers no matter how radical than to permitting him to place radicals in the coördinate branch of the judiciary.

The President's second choice for attorney general is that young New Deal firebrand, Solicitor General Robert Houghwout Jackson, who excoriated the corporations as the villains responsible for the new depression. Militating against Jackson is the fact that his appointment would place four New Yorkers in the cabinet.

But for the President's preference for Murphy, the likeliest successor of Justice Cardozo would be Prof. Felix Frankfurter, dean of the Harvard law school, who is one of the most potent undercover architects of the New Deal. He has supplied scores of young so-called liberals to key positions in the New Deal and in his secret visits to the White House has molded the President's policies.

The difficulty with respect to Dr. Frankfurter is that his appointment would continue the heavy preponderance of the east in the Supreme court in which the west is represented only by Justices Sutherland and Butler and the middle west has been unrepresented since the time of Chief Justice Waite a generation ago. Moreover, to name Frankfurter would give Massachusetts two justices, the other one being Louis D. Brandeis, the 82 year old dean of the court.

To make room for Frankfurter in addition to Murphy the President's propagandists have worked up what appears to be an impressive demand that Justice Brandeis resign from the court to take charge of the movement to succor the Jewish refugees from persecution in Germany. The justice, however, has given no indication up to date that he is falling for this sort of blandishment.

The indications are that the President would be better assured of success if he were to tone down his demands for Murphy to more modest proportions. He might be able to obtain confirmation of Murphy for solicitor general if Jackson were promoted to attorney general or for associate justice of the District of Columbia Supreme court if Justice Harold M. Stephens of that tribunal were promoted to the Supreme court.

Get Cummings' Scalp.

Thomas G. [Tommy the Cork] Corcoran and other young New Dealers who at present possess preponderantly the ear of the President and constituted his "elimination committee" in the ill fated purge, are bent upon a shakeup in the cabinet. They already have got Mr. Cummings' scalp.

The others on the decapitation list are Postmaster General James A. Farley, who needs the money he could make in private life but whom the President needs for his political proficiency in 1940; Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson, who has always been so feeble that the admirals have run the navy department; Secretary of Commerce Dan C. Roper, whom the President appointed to pay his 1932 convention debt to former Senator William G. McAdoo, and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who has catered to the radicals only to win their contempt.

CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS TAKE OFFICES TODAY

Here's the Inauguration Time Table.

Chicago's inauguration goers will get a break today when the new county and city officials are sworn in. The Democratic headquarters has taken steps to avert confusion and embarrassment by issuing a schedule that gives the name of the successful candidate, the time, and the place of the inauguration.

Who, When, and Where.

Here is the time table:

9:30 a. m.—John S. Clark will take the oath to succeed himself as assessor. Third floor, county building.

10 a. m.—The president and members of the board of county commissioners will take office in room 535, county building.

10:30 a. m.—Thomas J. O'Brien will take oath as sherif. Council chambers, city hall.

10:30 a. m.—Emmett Whealan and Paul Drymalski will be inducted as members of the board of tax appeal. Room 337, county building.

11 a. m.—John Toman will be inaugurated as county treasurer. Room 212, county building.

11 a. m.—Mitchell G. Robin will take oath to succeed himself as clerk of the Probate court. Room 929, county building.

Noon—Edmund K. Jarecki will take the oath to succeed himself as county judge. Room 603, county building.

1:30 p. m.—Thomas J. Bowler will be inaugurated as clerk of the Criminal court. Criminal courts building, 26th street and California avenue.

Four Judges to Be Sworn.

During part of the same period, four Municipal court judges will be sworn in. Edward P. Luczak, in room 902 at the city hall, and Victor A. Kula, in room 906, will take office at 10 a. m. Thirty minutes later William V. Daley, room 913, and Mason S. Sullivan, room 910, will be inaugurated at the city hall.

The oath will be taken privately by John F. Connell, who succeeds himself as probate judge; Sheldon W. Govier, clerk of the Appellate court, and Lambert K. Hayes, associate judge of the Municipal court.

Tomorrow at 2 p. m. trustees of the sanitary district will be sworn in at the board's suite in 910 South Michigan.

Since most of the Nov. 8 winners were reëlected to posts they already held, few of them will make new staf appointments. Two of the victors, however, step into new offices.

Toman Expected to Name Kolar.

Sherif John Toman is expected to announce that he has found a man with actual bank training as the assistant county treasurer. He is Andrew J. Kolar Jr., former vice president of the Drexel State bank, who left that post four years ago to enter the public relations department or the Walgreen company. He is now vice president of the Chicago public library board and has served five terms as president of that body.

Toman's successor as sherif, Congressman Thomas J. O'Brien has two important appointments to make. He is expected to name James Denver, now assistant county treasurer, as assistant sherif, and State Senator John M. Lee of the 11th district as chief deputy sherif.

JUPITER READY TO CLIMB LADDER; LOSES HIS CLOUD

The play's the thing and not the scenery.

Last week Alfred Lunt shipped from Detroit to Chicago the four sets of scenery to be used in "Amphitryon 38," in which he and Miss Lynn Fontanne open tonight at the Erlanger theater.

"On Borrowed Time" was still running at the theater and Lunt's scenery was kept in its baggage car. "On Borrowed Time" closed Saturday night and its scenery was packed yesterday for shipment to New York. Through some error the "On Borrowed Time" effects were left behind and the "Amphitryon" scenery taken away.

Before the mistake was discovered the scenery was half way to New York. Theater officials stopped it at Pittsburgh. It will be returned by noon today. About twelve hours will be required to set it up, which may mean after the curtain rises at 8:30 p. m. In the first act Mr. Lunt plays the rôle of Jupiter sitting high in the clouds.

"If the scenery isn't ready in time," he said, "I'll act from a stepladder and pretend I'm up in the clouds."

POLICE FIND MISSING GIRL; CARRY NEWS TO FAMILY; MOTHER DEAD

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Police found two persons dead and two others suffering gas poisoning today when they went to the home of a couple to report the finding of their long-missing daughter.

Some one apparently had turned on three gas jets of a kitchen stove during a Saturday night party. Mrs. Angie Galvin, the mother of the girl, and an unidentified man were dead.

The Galvins' daughter, Blanche, 15 years old, who ran away July 6 after leaving a note saying she found home life unbearable, was found yesterday.

LAST LINDHEIMER AUDIT SUBMITTED AS TREASURER

Horace G. Lindheimer, who retires today as county treasurer, made public yesterday the final audit and examination of his accounts for the two year period he was in office. The audit reflected speedier distribution of collected taxes which was effected by Lindheimer through the installation of modern bookkeeping and accounting equipment and adoption of modern office methods.

All six of the major county governments were able, during the last year, to reduce their indebtedness from 5 to 10 per cent. The prompt distribution of the tax money was shown as an important factor in this reduction, inasmuch as it permitted savings in interest on tax anticipation warants.

Total taxes collected during the period covered by the audit, plus the balance on hand in 1936, amounted to $437,265,393.82. In November, which was not included, an additional $4,902,601.08 was collected.

VIENNA CARDINAL URGES SANCTITY OF FAMILY LIFE

Preaches First Time Since Nazis Stormed Palace.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—While two detectives stood guard at the doors of St. Stephen's cathedral, Cardinal Theodore Innitzer, archbishop of Vienna, today preached his first sermon since Oct. 8 when Nazi crowds stormed his palace.

The cardinal told the congregation that "present conditions require redoubled efforts to preserve the sanctity of family life."

Denies Race was Glorified.

In Berlin's anti-Nazi Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] churches, a declaration drafted by the council of brethren was read. It drew attention to an order issued by the Nazi Teachers' union to its members forbidding them to give school children religious instruction "because the Bible glorifies a race from whose ranks sprang a Jew who murdered Counsellor von Rath."

[Ernst von Rath, secretary of the German embassy in Paris, was fatally wounded by a young Polish Jew on Nov. 7. Von Rath's death touched off anti-Jewish violence in Germany.]

The council of brethren denied that the Jewish race was glorified in either the Old or the New Testaments. It said that the prophets and Christians had turned against the Jews. The council thanked those teachers who despite the order had continued to give religious instruction.

The number of Confessional pastors whose salaries have been stopped has reached nineteen, it was disclosed. The number of imprisoned pastors has risen to seventeen.

Strike at Jews Again.

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—(AP)—New Nazi orders forced Jews deeper into isolation from German life today amid the beginnings of nation-wide Christmas festivities.

In the mended windows and showcases of stores taken from Jews after the recent anti-Semitic demonstrations new Christmas goods appeared.

But the new proprietors were warned that they must make a complete new start, erasing any ties with their stores' Jewish origins.

There were no new developments regarding the ghetto decrees issued yesterday by Count Heinrich von Helldorf, Berlin's chief of police. The decrees forbade Jews to appear in the Wilhelmstrasse, the German government district; in the Vosstrasse where the new chancellery is nearing completion and on the northern side of Unter den Linden. The new ghettos for Jews will be situated in the neighborhood of Linientrasse.

Residents of Berlin were exhorted officially to visit the "wandering Jew" exhibit, an anti-Semitic exposition which portrays in detail Nazidom's hatred and contempt for Jews.

While Germany was adopting additional measures against Jews, crowds of youngsters thronged Berlin's traditional Christmas market in the Lustgarten.

NAZIS TELL WIVES OF OUSTED POLISH JEWS TO GET OUT

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Warsaw Jewish committee today said thousands of Polish Jews, hurriedly expelled from Germany at the end of October, had received word that the wives they left behind have been ordered by German police to leave by Jan. 1.

Jews have informed the Warsaw government that they were worried because most Polish Jewesses still in Germany are without passports. The documents were turned over to Polish consulates for inspection and revalidation after Oct. 30 to comply with a new Polish citizenship law.

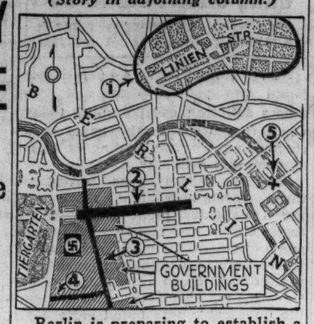
Thousands of these passports flooded the Polish consulates and their examination has proceeded slowly. It is feared many wives may be without passports as late as February.

FIND HEART VICTIM DEAD.

The body of Charles Henry, 50 years old, 123 North Ogden avenue, was found yesterday in the rear of 1401 West Randolph street. Death was apparently due to heart disease.

Ghetto for Berlin Jews

(Story in adjoining column.)



Berlin is preparing to establish a ghetto for Jews in (1) the general area around Linientrasse. Jews were banned by police decree from (2) the northern side of Unter den Linden, (3) Wilhelmstrasse, occupied by government buildings, and (4) Vosstrasse, where the new chancellery is being built. Children yesterday thronged Berlin's traditional Christmas market in (5) the Lustgarten.

3,500 URGE U. S. TO PROTEST NAZI ATTACKS ON JEWS

Resolutions suggesting that the United States take direct methods to make known its disapproval of the Nazi persecution of Jews were adopted last night at a meeting, attended by 3,500 persons, in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium. The gathering was sponsored by the Jewish People's Committee Against Fascism and Anti-Semitism.

One section of the resolutions urged President Roosevelt to use his powers to establish an embargo on all trade to and from territories controled by the Nazi government. The meeting recommended that Americans and individuals boycott German made goods until some such action is taken.

It was asserted that many Germans strongly oppose the Nazis and that as much assistance as possible be given these people.

LITHUANIA MAY PUT EX-CHICAGO MAN IN CABINET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 4.—Bronius K. Balutis, former Chicago lawyer, may become Lithuania's minister of foreign affairs tomorrow when it is expected a new cabinet will be announced with changes in six ministries.

Bronius K. Balutis.

Balutis was once a naturalized citizen of the United States. He served as Lithuanian minister to the United States from 1928 to 1934. He returned to Chicago Feb. 17, 1929, to speak at a celebration of the eleventh anniversary of the founding of the Lithuanian republic.

Reorganization of the Lithuanian government followed a week of political conferences in Kaunas, the capital. Ministers representing Lithuania abroad participated in the discussions.

Besides a new cabinet Lithuania proposes to make important changes in diplomatic appointments. It is believed in Kaunas that Premier V. Mironas is looking toward Poland and the soviet government for support against the aggressive policy of the Nazis in the Memel territory, where on Dec. 11 elections will be held for the Memel diet.

LOYALIST FLYERS FIGHT OFF RAIDS ON 2 MAIN PORTS

Valencia and Barcelona Escape Heavy Damage.

MADRID, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Two government pursuit squadrons gave battle for a half hour today to twenty-six rebel warplanes raiding the waterfront of Valencia. The defense air fleet broke up the raiders' formations and drove them off but only after about 260 bombs had been dropped, wounding nineteen persons and wrecking twenty-two houses.

Bombs Dropped Into Sea.

BARCELONA, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Barcelona's new air defense squadron broke up another rebel raid on this city today, scattering the enemy bombers in a brief dogfight. The rebels were forced to drop all their bombs into the sea outside the port.

Officials said two rebel bombers were damaged but it was not learned whether they fell. During the three days that the squadron of snub-nosed government "Chatos" has been protecting Barcelona only one person has been wounded in nine rebel day and night raids.

Franco Tells of Policies.

BURGOS, Spain, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco today coupled a prediction of a quick rebel victory in the Spanish civil war with a declaration that the new Spain would adopt an aggressive foreign policy. He told of his plans in an interview given on his 46th birthday today.

"In return for the blood which has been shed the life of our nation must be fruitful," he said. "Spaniards who live abroad will be longer be abandoned like outcasts. A sentiment of national solidarity will give them help and protection. Henceforth, no one will be indifferent to the sorrows of their brothers however far away they may be."

Franco sat in his second floor office. To reach him it was necessary to pass two sharp eyed Moorish lancer guards at the entrance of his villa. A waiting room was occupied by Franco's personal bodyguard.

Assails Loyalist Leaders.

Franco declared the government's continued resistance against the rebels was "an unique example in history." "It can only be explained by a total absence of patriotism and the criminal spirit of the Red [government] leaders," he said.

Franco charged that government leaders had "assassinated a half million innocent beings and at present they are trying to endeavor to make the people forget these crimes."

With a rebel victory he said justice would be accorded all in Spain and added the belief that most of the government forces would associate themselves in a united Spain.

"All those who have not committed crimes, who have not incurred heavy responsibilities will be reëstablished in civil life.

"Our forgiveness is open and generous for those who have been mistaken. Only those who persist in their criminal ideals must be isolated."

He said he did not believe there could be peace without imprisonments.

'ONLY ARMS CAN SPEAK,' BRITISH PEER WARNS NAZIS

BRADFORD, England, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Earl de la Warr, a cabinet minister, warned Germany today not to repeat the 1914 mistake of thinking Britain is decadent. He spoke also of a growing English conviction that "only armaments can speak effectively."

The peer, who is in the cabinet as president of the board of education, also disclosed in an address here Britain's disappointment with the Nazi state since the September Munich agreement.

"We were striving for a policy we called appeasement," he said. "What response has it evoked?"

The response, he said, was "within a fortnight of Munich, the wildest abuse of ourselves and attacks on our politicians that amount to an attempt at interference in our internal affairs and defiance of every canon of civilization in their [Germans] treatment of Jews."

Earl de la Warr asserted there was in England "a deep and growing feeling that we can do nothing to satisfy them [the Germans]."

SUDETENS VOTE FAITH IN HITLER; PERCENTAGE IS 99.2

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—Voters of Sudetenland, Germany's new province, went to the polls today and answered "ja" [yes] to the question: "Do you profess your faith in Adolf Hitler, liberator of the Sudetenland, and do you vote for the reichstag election list of the Nazi party?"

Official returns from forty-four of the sixty-six districts showed 1,195,194 voted "yes" and 7,046 voted "no," a percentage of 99.2 for Hitler.

JAPANESE PERMIT U. S. WARSHIP TO LEAVE HANKOW

SHANGHAI, Dec. 5 [Monday].—(AP)—The United States gunboat Luzon left Hankow today, the first foreign warship permitted by the Japanese to sail down the Yangtze since they gained control of that stretch of the river. Rear Admiral David Le Breton, commander of the American Yangtze patrol, was aboard the Luzon.

An escort of Japanese navy ships was provided for the 585 mile trip down the river by the Luzon and the French sloop, Admiral Charner. They were expected to reach Shanghai by Dec. 10. The escort was provided because the Japanese asserted passage on the river was dangerous because of floating mines.

United States warcraft has been tied up on the Yangtze since the gunboat Monocacy became isolated on June 30 near Kiukiang, ninety miles below Hankow. The Monocacy will remain at Kiukiang pending efforts to remove thirty-four Americans marooned at Kuling, a mountain resort 130 miles southeast of Hankow. The American gunboat Guam, sister ship of the Panay which was sunk by Japanese air bombs a year ago, remained at Hankow. On the central war front, meanwhile, the Japanese launched an attack on Kiuling, eighty miles northeast of Changsha.

presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

DIRECTIONS TO AN ARTIST

By CALEB

MANY MONTHS ago, an artist received from us a difficult assignment. He was commissioned to design our 1938 Christmas box.

He was told that the box must be warm with friendship, vivid in its expression of good cheer, and rich with the suggestiveness of treasure. It must forego the facile devices of sentimentalism, the tinsel gaudiness of insincerity. In short, the artist had to portray in color and form a concept of the ideals of Christmas giving, of service, and an embodiment of the composite tastes of Field customers extending from Chicago to around the world.

He chose the red of holly berries and of Christmas ribbon—a red from the banner of nations, a color of noble traditions.

Next came snowy white, crisp and clean in contrast. Off-tints might change the value of the adjoining red. He chose the color of winter fields, shining and true. To red and white, he added a ribbon of gold, symbolic of richness.

The question of design brought its own temptations. Too radical a treatment might be appreciated by only a few. Yet his composition must be apace with the times. To avoid the severity of flat planes of red and white, he drew them together with the ribbon motif—a ribbon lettered with the name: Marshall Field & Company.

Today, these boxes are stacked, many more than a million in number, on counters of our stores, and in great crowded warerooms. Tomorrow, gift-laden, they will begin their journeys to bring remembrances to Chicagoland and to the far places of the world. Many will ride for weeks on fast trains and sleek liners, to keep their appointments on Christmas morning.

It is our wish that, in its place at the foot of the tree, every box from Field's may contribute an added satisfaction to the recipient, as well as fittingly convey the thoughtfulness of the giver.

FRENCH STRIKERS DEFIANT; VOTE TO HOLD UP SHIPPING

Spurn Military Edict of Government.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(AP)—French Line workers at Le Havre defied the government today by voting a second time to continue their strike in sympathy with sixty discharged comrades.

Three thousand workers, including the complete crew of approximately 1,500 of the liner Normandie and an equal number of dock workers and port handlers, maintained their position despite the government's requisition order putting them under military control.

In addition there are about 2,000 workers on the liners Paris and Ile de France in the movement.

Workers Discharged.

All have been discharged by the French Line on orders from Marine Minister Louis de Chappendelaine. The Normandie was laid up yesterday.

The strike began when sixty employés of the shipping line were dismissed for participating in the nation-wide general strike last Wednesday.

Police issued a fourth warant for a union secretary engaged in promoting the strike. One such official already has been arrested and two others are being sought.

The French Line warned that any workers who had an active part in calling the strike would not be taken back.

To Confer Today.

The strikers agreed at a meeting this morning to send a delegation to Paris to confer tomorrow with the General Confederation of Labor.

The industrial situation throughout the country meanwhile was little changed during the week-end. Fernand Carles, Nord department prefect, conferred with employers and employés at Lille and announced that many metal plants and mines would reopen tomorrow.

Ten thousand workers continued to refuse to work at St. Nazaire, and Boulogne dockers and tugboat employés tied up thirteen harbor vessels in a dispute over the discharge of ninety workers.

BRITISH PREMIER MAY CALL OFF HIS TRIP TO SEE DUCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain may cancel his trip to Rome next month as the result of Italian attacks against France, it was indicated tonight. Chamberlain, it was said, will stay at home if the situation is not cleared up soon.

The prime minister faces an attack in the house of commons tomorrow. Some members will demand to know whether he is making the visit to Rome at the expense of an understanding with France. There also were indications that before a stiffened British-French front Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy might quiet the clamor for French territory unless Reichsfuehrer Hitler stirs up new agitation.

Diplomatic observers saw a new Sudetenland crisis developing in French Tunisia with Italians complaining of oppression the same as the Germans did in Czecho-Slovakia.

Germans in Ruthenia to Set Up Own Protection Unit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—A German National council has been formed in Ruthenia [Sub-Carpathian Russia], autonomous state of Czecho-Slovakia, it was announced today. The council plans to organize a "voluntary protection service," for the German population and a "school inspection board." Under the direction of this board, German language schools are to be reopened within the next few days in the German speaking part of Ruthenia.

TWO BOY BOATMEN DROWN.

Hackensack, N. J., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Two Hackensack youths were drowned in the Hackensack river today when their homemade cabin boat capsized. They were Richard Palmer, 16 years old, and Walter Ackerman, 14.

Seized by Nazis

DORIS BERGLUND.

The perils of carrying a camera in Germany were disclosed in a letter received yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Berglund, 115 North Chapel street, Waukegan, from their daughter, Miss Doris Berglund. She is now in Sweden.

In her letter, written in Germany on Nov. 10, Miss Berglund said she had been arrested by Nazi police in Hamburg. Her troubles rose over taking pictures.

"I spied a Jewish store, its windows smashed in and its goods scattered," Miss Berglund wrote. "I politely asked a policeman if I might take a picture of the store. He became very excited, and said, 'No,' I walked about a half block when another policeman told me I would have to go to the station. There . . . they took my camera away. . . . Later I was released and the American consul got back my camera."

4 SHOT AS FRENCH SAILORS BATTLE ITALIAN MARINES

SHANGHAI, Dec. 5.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Three French policemen and an Italian marine were wounded in a gun battle which developed early today when the police sought to quell a barroom brawl between sailors and marines of the two governments' defense units here.

Seven Italian marines were arrested and placed in the French military jail following the clash. Following the initial barroom clash the Italians retired to their barracks for reinforcements and returned and renewed the brawl with the French sailors.

The French police stepped in and attempted to separate them. Then the shooting started between the police and the Italians.

COLONISTS RIOT AGAINST ITALY IN FRENCH TUNISIA

Mob Raids Fascist Offices in Capital.

today to protest Italy's claims to this island birthplace of Napoleon in the Mediterranean sea.

The demonstrators broke through police lines in a series of rushes which took the guards off their feet and caused many persons to be injured. No attempt was made, however, to enter the consulate which is located outside the city.

The crowd shouted imprecations at the Italian consul for almost two hours and then it dispersed and drifted back to the city.

Resolution Blasts Italy.

The demonstration followed ceremonies at the world war monument in which organizations from all parts of the island participated.

A resolution was read affirming Corsica's "indestructible attachment" to France and expressing indignation at the "insulting pretensions" of Italy to acquire the territory.

As the procession moved from the monument to the Italian consulate a number of the paraders smashed windows in the store of an Italian merchant.

Demonstrations were held in many other parts of the island. Thousands of residents attended sessions of colonial associations and held public meetings to pass anti-Italian resolutions. Crowds shouted "Long Live France." "Long Live Corsica!" and "Long Live French Corsica!"

[Corsica, an island in the Mediterranean just south of Italian Sardinia, is a French department. France bought sovereignty from the Republic of Genoa in a treaty signed May 15, 1768.]

Denounce Action.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Italian claims against Tunisia and Corsica met blunt opposition today in a resolution passed by the union of Franco-Italian war veterans.

The war veterans, meeting in Paris, voted to "deplore with bitterness the anti-French campaign which has been going on too long in the Italian press and by radio and to consider indignantly the demonstrations [for taking over French territories] of Nov. 30 in Rome in the Italian chamber as well as on the streets."

The veterans asked their comrades in Italy to make known to the Italian government the unanimous stand of the French former soldiers.

Italy Renews Cry for Territory.

ROME, Dec. 4.—The Fascist press kept sharply in the foreground today Italy's cry of unsatisfied "national aspirations" which has put a new strain on her relations with France.

Il Popolo di Roma made the clearest, most far reaching explanation so far of the irridentist clamor for Tunisia which provoked a new issue with France Wednesday.

"The Italian people," the newspaper said, "have not forgotten even one of the many wrongs suffered in the past. They have not nor will they ever forget that in Corsica an Italian dialect is spoken and that Tunisia was stolen from them.

"The Italian people do not ignore the fact that Djibouti in their hands would be highly valuable because it is a natural port for a great part of Ethiopia. The port is completely useless in French hands in view of the fact that Italy can create a new port and divert through it all trafic which now passes through Djibouti.

"The Italian people above all remember the base ingratitude with which they were recompensed at the end of the war for the terrible sacrifices they suffered.

"They gave the lives of 640,000 youths to save France. And when the war was over they were denied even 386 square miles of African desert."

Liner and Greek Steamer Collide Off French Coast

BREST, France, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The naval wireless tonight intercepted an SOS call from the Hamburg South American 8,056 ton liner La Plata which said she had collided with the 4,261 ton Greek steamer Aktl about sixty miles directly south of Quimper [near Brest]. The Italian liner Marte went to the assistance of the two vessels as did several tugs from Brest.

NEW DEAL LAKE PLAN ASSAILED AS A BRAINSTORM

Illinois Farmers Battle to Keep Homes.

a recreation project. Erosion of farm lands, reforestation, flood control, and conservation of water are among other reasons the government advanced for the work.

Attorney Assails Claims.

Attorney Trobaugh, speaking for the farmers, declared there is no justification for claims of reforestation. He said there never has been a forest in that area, that there can be no forestation since the area is to become a lake, that there is no need for flood control since there is no overflow condition, and that there is no condition of soil erosion that does not exist through the United States.

"If they are going to take this land because of erosion, they might just as well dam up the rest of the country and convert it into one big duck pond," he said.

"I want some one to tell me how this community will be benefited by taking the homes and livelihood of 700 or 800 families and making waste land of the farms on which they are now making a living."

$4,849 Offer Told.

He said that the government offered G. W. Kirk $4,349 for his 80 acre farm. The farm has a 7 room house which Kirk said he built in 1923 at a cost of $3,500, and a barn that cost $2,800. Kirk would not take $12,000 for his place, Trobaugh said.

Alonzo Bowyer, who owns an 80 acre farm adjoining that of his father, J. T. Bowyer, 82 years old, said it appeared to him that the whole program is unwaranted.

"These are our homes and we want to live here," he said. "I don't even care about putting a price on my land. It is not for sale. And my father is too old to start over somewhere else."

He said that inundation of the highway will flood the farms of forty property owners who have built on choice locations near the highway.

"People down here don't like it," he added. "We don't see any sense in it and we want to be let alone."

PALMER'S BRIDE UNWORRIED OVER FAMILY DISDAIN

Sarasota, Fla., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Potter d'Orsay Palmer was unconcerned today by reports that her husband's parents had threatened to disinherit him.

"He's all right, and I still can serve the customers," said the bride, the former Pluma Abatiello, referring to the waitress job she quit Friday to become Palmer's fourth wife.

Her friends said she met Palmer two weeks ago in the dine and dance roadhouse where she worked when he asked her to play rhummy with him. Palmer returned to the roadhouse nightly, and Friday they drove to Punta Gorda and were married by a judge.

Palmer is ten years older than his bride, who is 23. He was divorced Wednesday by Pauline Warren, the daughter of an old New England family, whom he married the day after Marie Eugenia Martinez de Hoz, an Argentine heiress, divorced him in Chicago in 1936. He had been married to the Argentine heiress for six years. She became his wife after Eleanor Goldsmith, daughter of a Florida truck driver, divorced Palmer in Paris.

Boy, 3, Burned to Death as Gas Ignites Clothing

Charles Cleary, 3 years old, died late yesterday in the Mother Cabrini hospital of burns suffered a few hours earlier in his home, 1207 Cabrini street. The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cleary, said he went alone into the kitchen. Supposedly his clothing became ignited from a gas flame. The father's hands were burned in his efforts to beat out the fire.

GUFFEY URGES ROOSEVELT FOR 1940 CANDIDATE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Senator Joseph F. Guffey [D., Pa.] today urged the renomination of President Roosevelt.

Declaring the 1940 presidential campaign would be a history making struggle between "the liberal democracy of Franklin D. Roosevelt" and "the camouflaged Fascism of powerful financial and industrial interests masquerading under the colors of the Republican party," the administration supporter added:

"The one man to justify the Roosevelt record is Roosevelt. Pennsylvania wants him as standard bearer in 1940. Pennsylvania does not want and will have nothing to do with any so-called 'middle-of-the-road' candidates.

"Pennsylvania was, is and will be for Roosevelt and Pennsylvania's 72 votes at the next Democratic convention will be cast to make him our standard bearer in 1940."

Guffey announced his stand in a formal statement to the press.

New Deal Law to Prohibit Roosevelt Schooner Trips

Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—According to Capt. Ben Pine of the racing fishing schooner Thebaud, President Roosevelt will have to give up his vacation cruises on his small schooner Amberjack, under terms of the international labor treaty which was promulgated by the New Deal. The reason: The Amberjack, on a twenty-four hour cruise, would have to carry twelve licensed officers and there wouldn't be any room for the President. The treaty becomes effective Nov. 1, 1939.

Capt. Ben Pine.

ROOSEVELT'S SON JAMES JOINS FILM FIRM OF GOLDWYN

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 4.—(AP)—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, announced today he had entered the motion picture industry as vice president of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc. The exact nature of his work and the salary were not disclosed.

James Roosevelt.

Through Jock Lawrence, assistant to Goldwyn, Roosevelt issued a formal statement. It said:

"I consider myself very fortunate to have an opportunity to work with Mr. Goldwyn in continuing the record of service which this industry so long has maintained."

Roosevelt last month quit the $10,000 a year job as secretary to his father. After an operation three months ago for a stomach ulcer, he went to the Hollister, Cal., ranch of his friend, Walter Murphy.

RUMANIA BRANDS 17 SLAIN FASCISTS AS PLOT LEADERS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Police announced today the slaying of seventeen Iron Guardists last week followed discovery of a plot to bomb and destroy parts of Cluj, university seat and reputed center of the activities of the outlawed Fascist-patterned organization.

The authorities said the plan fell through because of the reluctance of some of the young Guardists to carry out their assignments and swift police action against the terrorists. The first blow at the Iron Guard came when Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, convicted for treason as leader of the organization, and thirteen subleaders were shot last Wednesday. Three others were slain at Cluj yesterday. Police said that they were shot when they attempted to escape.

Flory Stefanescu Goanga, rector of the University of Cluj and Iron Guard opponent who was the victim of an attempted assassination, meanwhile was reported in critical condition. Three Iron Guardists confessed before they were slain yesterday that they attempted to kill Goanga and had taken their orders from Codreanu.

After the speech Mr. Roosevelt will go to Durham, N. C., to board the special train, which will arrive in Washington Tuesday morning. Awaiting the President in the capital are Hugh R. warm regard corked

The giving of fine wines and liquors at Christmas-time far transcends the usual gesture of annual—and casual—friendship.

The gift of fine liquor, with its noble heritage, bespeaks the knowledge of its enrichening contribution to society through the ages . . . stamps both donor and recipient as collaborators in the good life.

Forevermore, the invitation to a drink has spelled a toast to friendship and "to drink like a gentleman" a pre-requisite to culture.

Comfort, solace and high heart are your friend's with this good companion of the spirit. At Christmas-time, as at all festive occasions, the time-honored cup that cheers is, as well, the cup that endears.

So . . . the gift of fine wines and liquors is Yule-tide's most profound of compliments. It transmits the true mood of Christmas. It is the bestowal of comradeship bottled . . . warm regard corked.

SUIT IS BASELESS, H. F. M'CORMICK ATTORNEY SAYS

Tells Financial Aid to Kansas City Widow.

Attorneys for Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the International Harvester company, said yesterday there is no basis for the $2,000,000 breach of promise suit brought against Mr. McCormick by Mrs. Olive R. Colby, a widow of Kansas City, Mo. The suit was filed Saturday in Superior court here.

Mrs. Colby, twice married, charged that McCormick twice asked her to marry him and that each time she consented. On Dec. 6, 1933, she declared, McCormick notified her that he would not marry her. McCormick is now living with his third wife in Pasadena, Cal. They were married last May 31.

Demand Rejected, He Says.

Attorney John P. Wilson in a statement in behalf of McCormick, explained that McCormick had aided Mrs. Colby financially to help her in business because of his close friendship for her late husband. He asserted the suit was filed only after McCormick had rejected a demand by Mrs. Colby for a settlement of a "few thousand dollars."

Mrs. Colby's husband, Howard A. Colby, was a member of a prominent eastern family and studied law under Woodrow Wilson at Princeton university. He was a friend of Theodore Roosevelt, John D. Rockefeller Sr., and Thomas A. Edison. He was said to have taught Rockefeller to play golf and to have given Edison his first ride in an automobile.

"It is true that Howard Colby was a close personal friend of Harold McCormick at college," Attorney Wilson said. "This friendship continued during Mr. Colby's life. Mr. Colby visited Mr. McCormick in his home frequently over a long period of years. On many occasions he received financial assistance in substantial amounts from Mr. McCormick.

Tells of Aid to Widow.

"Mr. McCormick kept on with this assistance to his widow after her husband's death in 1929 for the purpose of helping her establish herself in business. He continued this help until the close of 1933.

"At that time it was made clear to her that she would receive no further financial assistance from Mr. McCormick.

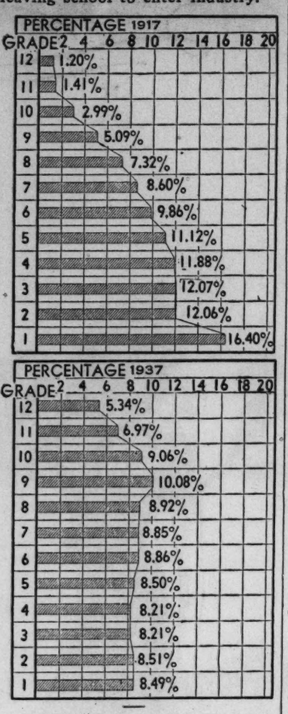
"Recently demands have been made on behalf of Mrs. Colby for the settlement of an alleged breach of promise to marry, resulting in a suggested offer of compromise on her part for a few thousand dollars.

"This was rejected because there was no basis whatever for the claim, and then the suit was brought."

McCormick, who is 66 years old, was the heir to the fortune of his father, the first Cyrus H. McCormick.

High School Gains

These charts show the percentage of pupils in each grade in Chicago schools in 1917 and 1937. The figures call attention to the increasing number of pupils who finish high school (12th grade) instead of leaving school to enter industry.



Public school education in Chicago is reaching the place where the number of pupils in each of the twelve grades is nearly equal, Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson said yesterday. He cited this stage as a goal of the public educational system.

"In 1907 17.72 per cent of the pupils were in the first grade and .62 of 1 per cent were in the twelfth, or the fourth year of high school. This condition has been gradually changing until last year 8.49 per cent of the pupils were in first grade and 5.34 in the twelfth. The percentages in all first eight grades last year were practically equal," he said. "Within four more years the same number of pupils will be in each grade."

He attributed the change to improvement in high school courses, the fact that children do not go to work as young as they did in 1907, and the need for high school educations when entering business.

HERE'S YOUR OWN CHANCE TO HELP A FAMILY IN NEED

An Opportunity to Be a Good Fellow.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Landlords usually get the worst of it in any conversation. But if they were all like the woman who wrote to the Good Fellow department there would be a great deal more happiness in Chicago at Christmas time. Because of the letter's sincerity and with the hope that readers will all become Good Fellows to some unfortunate family, we will reprint it in full, as follows:

"I've read of your Good Fellow organization and wondered if you had any extra baskets if you could send one to the ——. I am their landlady. They have three children and live in two furnished rooms. The husband is out of work and they are on relief and have been having a hard time as there has been a good deal of sickness in the family. I have been helping them out all I can, but most of my tenants are out of work and I can't put them out.

None Has Winter Clothing.

"If you have anything to give this family Christmas cheer I'm sure the family would appreciate it. None of the children has any winter clothing and one child has to stay out of school on this account."

It is inspiring to know there are hundreds of people just like this kind property owner throughout Chicago. But your Good Fellow editor must find additional persons who are willing to take a basket of food, toys, and candy to distressed families on Christmas eve. Every year the Good Fellow bureau clears hundreds of more names than there are those who are willing to play Santa Claus. It would be a most discouraging task if it were not for the knowledge of the happiness that is brought to some 10,000 children by thoughtful people.

The woman in this story has told you of only one big heartache. Multiply that by thousands and you get the true picture of our responsibility. There are three and a half million people in Chicago. It doesn't seem possible that there should be one forgotten home on Christmas eve.

And we can do our part through the Good Fellow bureau. Either fill in the coupon which accompanies this article or call Superior 0100 after 9 a. m. today.

CHICAGO'S OWN YULE BENEFIT TO CLOTHE 75,000

More than 75,000 children will be outfitted with warm clothing this year as a result of Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit, according to Mayor Kelly, who is chairman. In addition, school children, firemen, and WPA workers are repairing thousands of toys which will be given to help brighten the Christmas season for needy children.

The Night of Stars revue, which will be held Dec. 31 at the Stadium as the closing event of the benefit, is expected to draw more talent than ever before. Several motion picture studios have promised to send stars and all eading night clubs and cafés in Chicago will loan their headline acts.

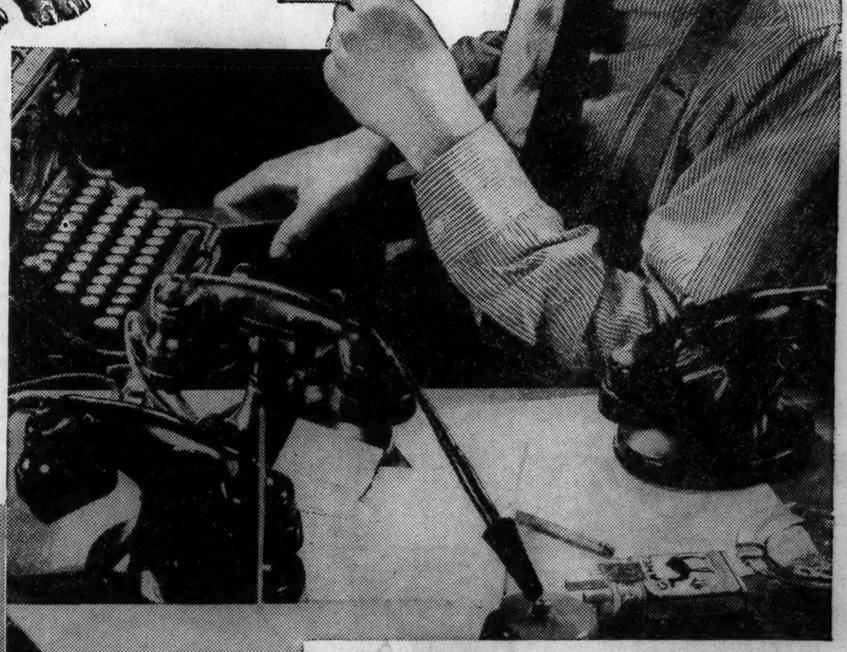
"Let up—light up a Camel"



TRAP-SHOOTING CHAMPION of North America (Women's Clay Targets), Mrs. Lela Hall, says: "Holding a shooting title four years straight puts plenty of pressure on the nerves. I find that it pays to give my nerves frequent rests, especially during matches and before them. So I let up—light up a Camel—often! Camels really are so soothing."

DID YOU KNOW:

That at one stage, practically all the moisture is removed from cigarette tobacco, and then later just the proper amount restored for manufacturing purposes? That there are more than 40 huge air-conditioning machines where Camels are made? "WHAT HURTS BUSINESS HELPS ME"

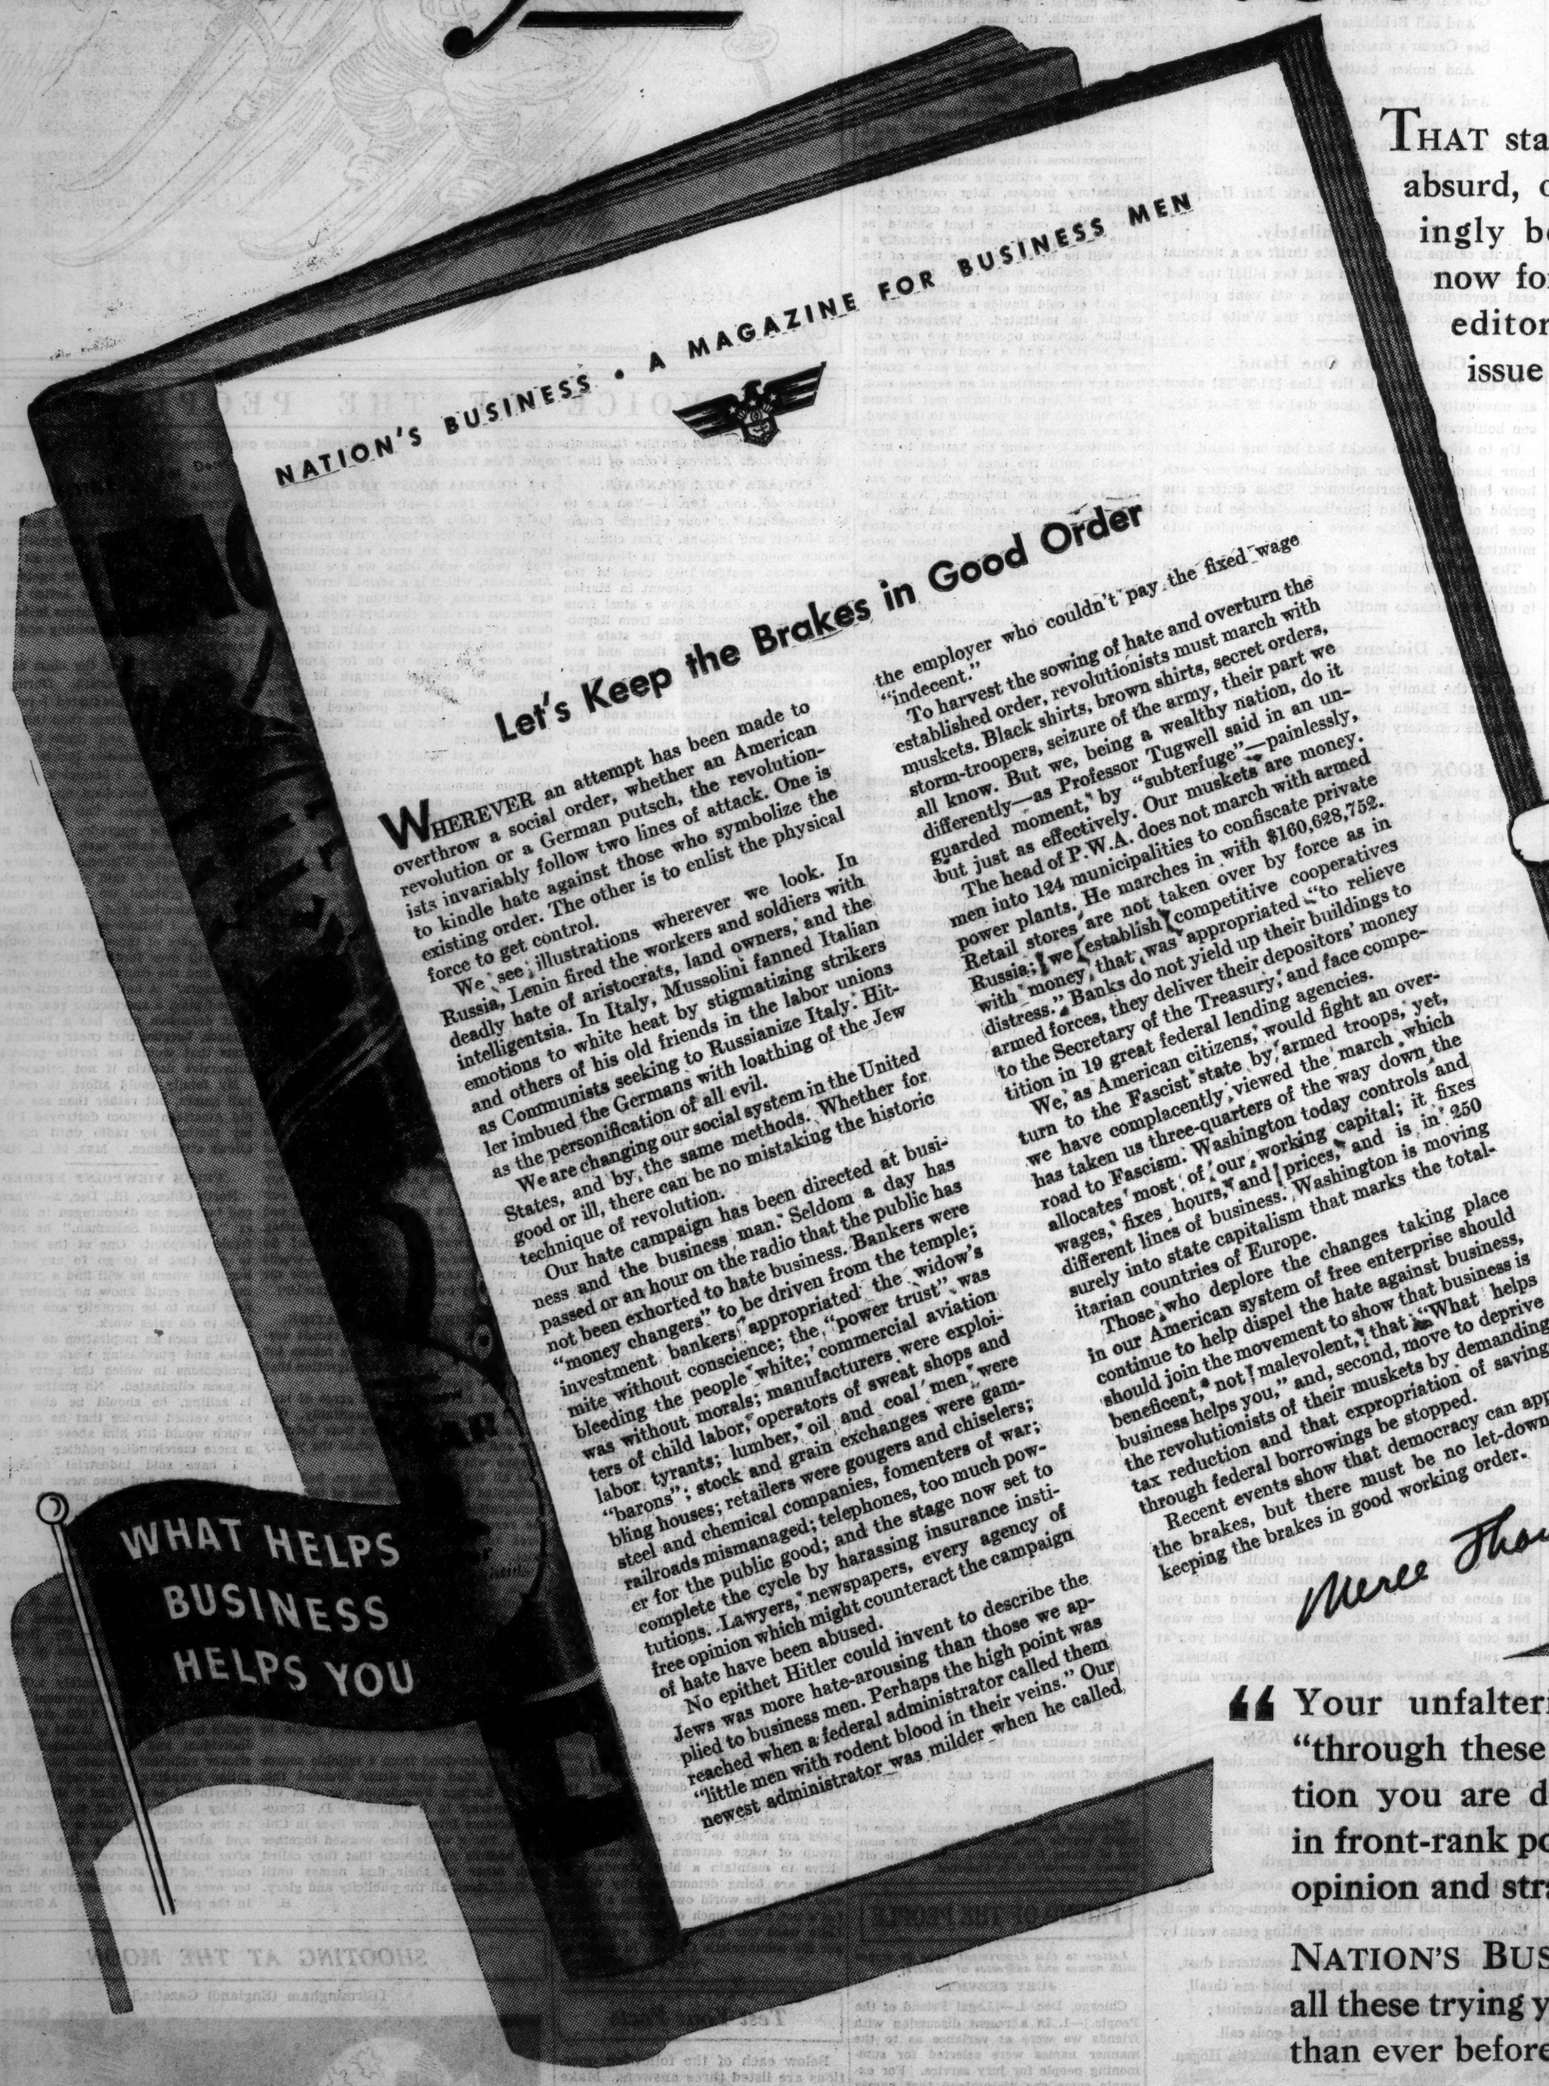
..now you tell one!



NATION'S BUSINESS • A MAGAZINE FOR BUSINESS MEN
Let's Keep the Brakes in Good Order
WHEREVER an attempt has been made to overthrow a social order, whether an American revolution or a German putsch, the revolutionists invariably follow two lines of attack. One is to kindle hate against those who symbolize the existing order. The other is to enlist the physical force to get control.
We see illustrations wherever we look. In Russia, Lenin fired the workers and soldiers with deadly hate of aristocrats, land owners, and the intelligentsia. In Italy, Mussolini fanned Italian emotions to white heat by stigmatizing strikers and others of his old friends in the labor unions as Communists seeking to Russianize Italy. Hitler imbued the Germans with loathing of the Jew as the personification of all evil.
We are changing our social system in the United States, and by the same methods. Whether for good or ill, there can be no mistaking the historic technique of revolution.
Our hate campaign has been directed at business and the business man. Seldom a day has passed or an hour on the radio that the public has not been exhorted to hate business. Bankers were "money changers" to be driven from the temple; investment bankers appropriated the widow's mite without conscience; the "power trust" was bleeding the people white; commercial aviation was without morals; manufacturers were exploiters of child labor, operators of sweat shops and labor tyrants; lumber, oil and coal men were "barons"; stock and grain exchanges were gambling houses; retailers were gougers and chiselers; steel and chemical companies, fomenters of war; railroads mismanaged; telephones, too much power for the public good; and the stage now set to complete the cycle by harassing insurance institutions. Lawyers, newspapers, every agency of free opinion which might counteract the campaign of hate have been abused.
No epithet Hitler could invent to describe the Jews was more hate-arousing than those we applied to business men. Perhaps the high point was reached when a federal administrator called them "little men with rodent blood in their veins." Our newest administrator was milder when he called the employer who couldn't pay the fixed wage "indecent."
To harvest the sowing of hate and overturn the established order, revolutionists must march with muskets. Black shirts, brown shirts, secret orders, storm-troopers, seizure of the army, their part we all know. But we, being a wealthy nation, do it differently—as Professor Tugwell said in an unguarded moment, by "subterfuge"—painlessly, but just as effectively. Our muskets are money.
The head of P.W.A. does not march with armed men into 124 municipalities to confiscate private power plants. He marches in with $160,628,752. Retail stores are not taken over by force as in Russia; we establish competitive cooperatives with money that was appropriated "to relieve distress." Banks do not yield up their buildings to armed forces, they deliver their depositors' money to the Secretary of the Treasury, and face competition in 19 great federal lending agencies.
We, as American citizens, would fight an overturn to the Fascist state by armed troops, yet, we have complacently viewed the march which has taken us three-quarters of the way down the road to Fascism. Washington today controls and allocates most of our working capital; it fixes wages, fixes hours, and fixes prices, and is in 250 different lines of business. Washington is moving surely into state capitalism that marks the totalitarian countries of Europe.
Those who deplore the changes taking place in our American system of free enterprise should continue to help dispel the hate against business, should join the movement to show that business is beneficent, not malevolent, that "What helps business helps you," and, second, move to deprive the revolutionists of their muskets by demanding tax reduction and that expropriation of savings through federal borrowings be stopped.
Recent events show that democracy can apply the brakes, but there must be no let-down in keeping the brakes in good working order.

THE NEW DEAL SHIFT OF METHOD.

Election reverses apparently are to make a shift in some of the New Deal methods. The congress which meets in January is uncertain. The frustrated purge strengthened the Democratic opposition and the gains in Republican membership increase the independence of the legislative body. The probability is that it will not be receptive when "must" bills come from the White House.

Congress cannot be expected to pass any more revolutionary bills without reading them. The opposition is on its feet again. If America is to be remade within the next two years and if Mr. Roosevelt is to assure himself of the continuity of purpose which he says is imperative, the methods of the revolution will have to be modified in some respects. An obstinate congress can stop power plays.

Two years ago the attack upon industry was by the C. I. O., supported by the La Follette committee and later by the labor board. The election last month proved the failure of that attack. The industrial states in which the attack was made were taken away from the New Dealers. The communistic adventure failed. The new approach to the industrial situation is through the department of justice with Thurman Arnold in charge.

In connection with the maneuver the investigation of monopolies has been begun. The commission which undertakes this is intended by the New Deal, whether it truly plays its part or not, to do about what the La Follette committee endeavored to do. It will, if the New Dealers have their way, prepare public opinion to seek the major causes of economic faults in monopolistic practices resulting in restricted and inadequate production of goods and in excessive and prohibitive prices. If public opinion can be persuaded that private enterprise has failed to produce sufficient goods for the country's needs and is responsible for what the New Dealers call destitution, the approach to government control through the department of justice will be easier.

Mr. Arnold, undertaking a work which Rexford Tugwell outlined as industrial discipline at the beginning of Mr. Roosevelt's administration, seeks to establish codes of fair competition by means of indictment and prosecution—a bludgeon method. If the defendant sees fit to accept the government's prescription for the operation of the plant, trial is avoided, and a consent decree is accepted. Failing to force the acceptance of a decree, the department of justice will prosecute.

If this method of approaching the industrial question by propaganda and prosecution should be successful, it would not be necessary to submit a program to congress. The New Deal would approach its desired regulation, reviving many of the features of the NRA, without risking bills in a congress which may be full of the opponents of the Roosevelt revolution.

The New Deal was dismayed in the elections to find that popular support had been withdrawn in the states most important for its continued drive toward dictatorial powers. It has not played itself out by any means and hopes that within the next two years it can regain popular favor, further deceive public opinion, and revive the dogma that national welfare depends not upon the activities of private individuals and the new investment of private savings but upon the control of production and distribution by federal government agencies. The New Dealers are trying to find methods which will avoid the necessity of congressional acts.

THE ARMY-NAVY GAME.

About ten years ago Chicago was able to break the Army-Navy tradition that football games between the two schools must be played in the east and the game was moved to Soldiers' field. Army and Navy traditions aren't broken easily, but the schools never regretted the trip into the midwest. The effort to break down the resistance was almost as great as that required to get started on a subway, but persistence and good reasoning finally prevailed.

Chicago did not expect to try it again in a hurry, but now another occasion arises, a small sentimental one it may be conceded, but again the ten year old reasoning is good. The Army and Navy see little of the midwest and the midwest sees little of them, particularly of the Navy. A good argument can be made for the desirability of acquaintance. The trip is a short one and Chicago can safely guarantee to pay all the expenses to bring the cadets and midshipmen out as its guests, to give their athletic funds all they would receive from an eastern game, and to provide entertainment. The game was a sell-out in 1926 and it will be in 1939.

The sentimental reason is furnished by our neighbor, Kankakee. The West Pointers have elected for their captain next year Harry Stella of Kankakee and the Navy has chosen Allen A. Bergner of Kankakee. The home town wants to see these two boys play and the entire population would come to Chicago for the occasion. It will probably be a hundred years before anything of the kind recurs, so why not bring the teams out to the midwest again? There is said to be a matter of contracts for next year's game in the way, but is it too much to believe that a release could be obtained in view of the pleasing, particular, and novel circumstances? The ice was broken over ten years ago and it is probably nowhere nearly as thick now.

UNANSWERED QUESTIONS.

The opposition in the house of commons has, by its questions, brought out the fact that the British foreign office, using our ambassador, Mr. Kennedy, as its emissary, induced Paramount to censor a news reel. The incident occurred at the time of the Czecho-Slovakian crisis.

In the nature of things, it is not likely that the spokesmen for the foreign office will tell how Mr. Kennedy went about the business. That he did so is beyond dispute. On Oct. 11, long before the question was raised in parliament, Mr. A. J. Cummings, political editor of the London News-Chronicle, spoke as follows before the British Institute of Journalists:

"In the single instance in which Paramount, greatly daring, endeavored to take an objective line, the foreign office came down upon it within a very few hours of the release of this particular presentation of the facts. Curiously enough, the foreign office accomplished its good work by stealth. Not liking to appear in the limelight, it actually persuaded the American embassy to communicate its wishes to the Paramount people who [reluctantly, as I understand] submitted."

The answers in parliament have confirmed this account in all essential particulars.

What we in this country want to know is why Mr. Kennedy undertook the chore and how he succeeded in carrying it out. Efforts of newspaper men in Washington to elicit the facts have been unavailing. It is to be hoped that the foreign relations committee of the senate will pursue the matter, summoning Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Will Hays, and the responsible officials of Paramount. Our ambassadors in London should be discouraged from playing the rôle of office boy of empire. Walter Hines Page got a tablet in Westminster abbey to celebrate his success in bringing us into the war; one such tablet is enough.

GET GOING.

Judge Epstein's protest against the predicament in which judges of the Criminal court find themselves under the indeterminate sentence and parole laws we hope will stimulate immediate organization for reform. At the last session of the legislature the measures formulated by a highly competent committee headed by Frank Loesch were passed by both senate and house, but the bill vesting in trial judges authority to fix maximum and minimum sentences was vetoed by Gov. Horner. This action took place so late in the session that an effort to pass the bill over the veto was impossible. At that time leaders of the assembly, including Senator Ward, Democratic leader, and Representative Schnackenberg, Republican leader, who had led the support for the bill, declared that it would be reintroduced in the next session, and we hope its friends will get it under way early and press it vigorously to repassage.

Public opinion undoubtedly demands reform. It is fed up with the flagrant weaknesses of the parole system and wants the criminal courts vested with authority to handle dangerous criminals efficiently. The weight of judgment among judges, prosecutors, and practical students of our criminal administration favors drastic amendment of our existing methods, and we urge that this judgment be brought to bear again upon our lawmakers without delay. It will have plenty of support from public opinion throughout the state.

EVASIONS OF MARRIAGE LAWS.

The recent stern rebuke by Superior Judge O'Connell of a suitor who had evaded Illinois marriage statutes by marrying in Indiana we hope will be noted in our neighbor state and hasten the enactment of similar restraints there. The suitor had tired of her bargain and wanted it declared null. Judge O'Connell held that she could not plead her own voluntary violation of the law of her own domicile in order to escape from bonds deliberately assumed.

This theoretically should discourage such evasions, but it is not likely to in fact. Persons willing to plunge into matrimony without regard for the laws of their own homes or for the reasonable safeguards established for their own and the public welfare are not likely to be restrained by the closing of an exit from some future predicament. The only way to prevent these evasions is to apply the same restraints in Indiana as we have in Illinois. They are needed there as plainly and urgently as in our state and we hope they will not be postponed. They will serve the health and welfare of the people of Indiana and they involve no fairly controversial question. May we not hope to have this action for our common good taken at the next session of the Indiana legislature?

Editorial of the Day

NO RADIO CENSORSHIP.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the federal communications commission, is right in declaring that there must be no governmental censorship of radio. Censorship by burocracy is always bad, for it always leads to greater evils than it is designed to cure. And, fundamentally, it is contrary to the democratic way.

Recently radio made a mistake, a bad mistake, through a broadcast that scared many listeners. We refer to the dramatization of H. G. Wells' "The War of the Worlds." The trouble there came in mixing fact and fiction, in using so-called news bulletins as the device to carry on an imaginary action.

Because of that error, we find some newspaper editors wooden headed enough above the ears to demand censorship and governmental control of programs. The editor of the Norristown [Pa.] Times-Herald, for instance, wrote a long editorial urging censorship and sent reprints of it all over the country. How long would he remain free in his own field if we broke down the principle of freedom by putting radio in a straitjacket? He is playing into the hands of the Senator Mintons who want to stifle freedom of the press in this country.

As Chairman McNinch says, the broadcasters must do their own censoring. And there is every indication that they will. They have made errors in the past and have not repeated them. They will not again make this recent mistake. They depend on public reaction, and that is a good deal better and safer than burocratic censorship.

If we had censorship and censorship made a mistake, who would correct that? Nobody, for nobody would be in a position to do it. The listeners could take it and like it.

QUESTIONS FOR HITLER.

Wouldst push Jehovah from his throne
And quench Isaiah's fire,
Spurn the Lawgiver's tablet stone
And still the Psalmist's lyre?

Wouldst hush the voice of Sinai
That thundered through the years,
Blot out the Star in Judah's sky
And slay the holy seers?

Can you erase the Name of names
And break the pen of Paul,
Deny the martyrdom of flames
And bid high heaven fall?

Dost not know the tomb unknown
In Moab's lonely land
Yet speaks with mighty trumpet tone
And voice of stern command?

The madmen of the world could not
Cancel a single line
Or change a tittle or a jot
Of the Supreme's design!

Go ask of Babylon the great
And call Belshazzar's shade,
See Caesar's marble ruined state
And broken battle blade!

And as they went, you too shall go,
And all the world shall laugh
As merry as the winds that blow
The light and empty chaff!

Clocks with One Hand.

To answer a query in the Line [11-26-'38] about an unusually designed clock dial at 28 East Jackson boulevard:

Up to about 1675 clocks had but one hand, the hour hand, and four subdivisions between each hour indicated quarter-hours. Thus during the period of the Italian Renaissance clocks had but one hand and dials were not subdivided into minutes as now.

The store fittings are of Italian Renaissance design, and the clock dial was a detail to conform to the Renaissance motif. Almer Coe.

BOOK OF BISCAYNE BLUE.

In passing by a newsstand I
Espied a blue design,
On which appeared two faces weird,
It was une livre de Line.
Though pressed for time, I placed a dime
Upon the counter there,
Then firmly took the little book,
And now its pleasure share.
Those faces, though, took on a glow,
Their eeriness had fled;
The Biscayne blue had changed its hue
And merged with green and red.

The Duke's Retort Courteous.

Her Royal-ighness, the Dutchess in her very best English says, "dontcha answer that low-life ½ Indian [Snow-Shoe Al, 11-28-'38] cause if ya do it wood show that you was guilty as hell." So here goes.

My dear Al, [pardon the abbreviation—I forget how you spell Alley] why do you call me a hillbilly when you of all gazaboes came from the oldest of all hillbilly clans? You know you changed your name from NO-SHOES to SNOW-SHOE, but always remember the old riddle that says, "you cant change the spots on a leopard" [or is it a skunk?].

That whale story wasn't exactly like you tole it. If I remember rightly the dear ole lady says to me that there was an awful odor in the place and why should it be if the whale was embalmed. So I tells her if she didn' stand between you an me she wood'n notice any smell, so when I escorted her to my right she says, "Oh that's so much better."

Also when you razz me again about playing the ponies just tell your dear public about tha time we was at the track when Dick Welles ran all alone to beat his own track record and you bet a buck he couldn't. Yea! now tell em what the cops found on you when they nabbed you at the rail. Duke Bakrak.

VAGABOND'S CURSE.

Some hearts there are that cannot bear the ease
Of quiet gardens, knowing that somewhere
Beyond the lift and roll and dip of seas
Hibiscus flames, and ginger scents the air.

There is no peace along a softer path
For those who've seen stars wheel across the sky,
Or climbed tall hills to face the storm-god's wrath,
Heard trumpets blown when flighting geese went by.

This is my curse. Winds, take my scattered dust,
When ships and stars no longer hold me thrall,
To lands I've missed, to ports o' wanderlust;
We cannot rest who hear the red gods call.

"Nope. Could hardly hear you down here," he chuckled. A Looper.

NEURALGIA MAY COME FROM THE TEETH.

PAIN in a nerve is usually the result of irritation, although there are some instances in which individuals will complain of symptoms without the slightest evidence of real trouble. We say that the latter are exhibiting a neurosis which has its origin in some emotional disturbance.

This discussion, however, has to do with actual distress where nerve fibers are pressed upon, influenced by toxins, or otherwise inflamed because of their relation to nearby areas which are in difficulty. We may look upon sciatica as neuralgia. Pain in the face may be due to bad teeth or to some ailment within the mouth, the nose, the sinuses, or even the eyes.

Almost every one has had a toothache. This is dental neuralgia. It may come on because the general health has dropped or because some disease [decay] has attacked the structure itself. Much can be determined by the nature of the manifestations. If the discomfort is throbbing we may anticipate some acute inflammatory process, later causing pus formation. If twinges are experienced after eating candy, a hunt should be made for signs of caries. Frequently a site will be found near the neck of the tooth, possibly under the gum margin. If symptoms are manifest on taking hot or cold liquids a similar search should be instituted. Whenever the dentine becomes uncovered we may expect soreness and a good way to find out is to ask the victim to eat a grapefruit for the spotting of an exposed root.

If the irritation disturbs rest because of the altered blood pressure to the head, we may suspect the pulp. The fact may be elicited by asking the patient to bend forward until the head is between the knees—the same position which we employ to overcome faintness. A sudden stab, as though a needle had been inserted into a sensitive region is indicative of a slowly dying pulp. This takes place at intervals, but becomes gradually less and less noticeable as the soft tissues shrink and harden.

Of course, every dead "grinder" should be looked upon with suspicion, but it is not always possible, even with the greatest skill, to decide whether it is living or not. Heat and electrical devices are helpful in making a diagnosis, but results are not always positive. Occasionally a hidden cavity will be disclosed by means of special light tests conducted in a dark room.

True cases of trigeminal neuralgia, commonly called tic doloreux, are relatively infrequent. The name probably arose because of the facial contortions and grimaces which sometimes accompany an attack. Here the teeth are not to blame and there seems to be an inflammation of the nerve within the brain. Treatment should be instituted only after a careful diagnosis has proved the ailment. Temporary comfort may be secured by the injection of alcohol at the point where the fibers emerge from the skull in front of the ear. In fact, immunity for an average of three years may follow this plan.

If there is a return of irritation the nerve can again be deadened although—because of scar tissue—it may not be easy to reach the exact vicinity a second time. However, thanks to recent surgical developments—largely the pioneer work of Cushing, Spiller, and Frazier in this country—complete relief can be afforded by excising a portion of the nerve within the cranium. This is not a formidable operation in expert hands and it affords permanent abatement. While it is a procedure not to be undertaken lightly, nevertheless one who has been afflicted for a great length of time will welcome almost any chance for cure.

But nine out of ten cases of aching in the face, head, and neck regions arise within the mouth or neighboring parts, the teeth particularly. X-rays afford considerable assistance to the dentist and the physician in arriving at the cause. Now and then a third molar which has failed to erupt will prove annoying, especially if there is pressure at the root end. In such a circumstance there may be a more or less constant agony with periods of increasing severity.

EDGES OF TEETH CHIP.

H. W. writes: What causes teeth to chip off? Is there anything that will prevent this? Must they be edged with gold?

REPLY.

If only one tooth is affected, the chances are that the trouble is local. Have your dentist make a thorough examination. The tooth need not be "edged" with anything if there is no decay or loss of enamel. Do you habitually bite on some hard object?

TREATMENT FOR ANEMIA.

L. S. writes: Which will give more lasting results and be most beneficial for chronic secondary anemia, periodic injections of iron, or liver and iron extract taken by mouth?

REPLY.

There are many forms of anemia, some of which require iron, some liver. The manner of taking the medicine makes little difference provided it is absorbed.

JURY SERVICE.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. In a recent discussion with friends we were at variance as to the manner names were selected for summoning people for jury service. For example some one maintained that names were selected from voters' lists; another person thought they were selected from telephone directories. Will you kindly clear this slight disagreement up by informing us as to the correct procedure in choosing names?

2. Also, are women usually selected for the general run of cases tried or only for special cases where a woman's viewpoint may have some significance in the case?

J. F.

1. The lists are prepared by jury commissioners. Selections from these lists is by lot.

2. After being sent to the courtrooms the jurors are questioned by the attorneys and their selection for the case in point will depend in part on what challenges are made. It is not clear whether you are asking about this part of the selection or the steps that go before it.

INDIANA VOTE SCANDALS.

Greenwood, Ind., Dec. 1.—You are to be commended for your editorial covering McNutt and Indiana. That clique in Marion county duplicated in November the crooked system they used in the spring primaries. A recount in Marion will without a doubt show a steal from three to five thousand votes from Republicans. They are using the state Supreme court to protect them and are doing everything in their power to prevent a recount, causing the Republicans all the expense possible. The same conditions prevail in Terre Haute and Vigo county. They stole the election by thousands of votes from the Republicans.

I am a constant reader of THE TRIBUNE and I hope that you will continue to probe this last election in Indiana.

LAWLESSNESS ABROAD.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—A short time ago an editorial appeared in THE TRIBUNE relative to the inhuman treatment of the Jewish people and other minorities in Germany by the Nazi régime and in certain other nations as well.

May I take this opportunity to express my personal approval of that very splendid stand, which, in my judgment, conveyed the point of view to which all free thinking American citizens should give serious consideration.

I have for months been provoked beyond ordinary limitations with the seemingly spineless and almost cowardly attitude of the great mass of our citizenry relative to international trends in this regard and I am not one of those who feels that our nation can afford to sit idly by and permit international lawlessness to continue at the alarmingly rapid pace of the last few years.

I again congratulate THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on the courageous stand it is taking as a matter of policy.

LISTEN FOR THE HOOF BEATS.

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 30.—Why not petition the voters to eliminate the numerous "ghost" offices that have been multiplying since the advent of the present administration?

Then again we still have 102 counties in Illinois! Each one of these counties has a staggering pay roll, a "patronage," gift the incumbent officeholders owe to their workers in electing them into office. Naturally no one can imagine the politician letting them go after the election!

Our present representatives, federal and local, too, had better heed the "hoof beats" of our millions of unemployed by bending every effort toward placing them back in honest employment instead of "shovels and picks"! We need more men of the Dies committee type. May they begin soon with the "higher ups" in Washington!

A BLUE RIDGE AMERICAN.

STOCKYARDS STRIKE.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—The packers head the list in our Community Fund drive. They are paying their common labor more than the average lawyer, doctor, and "middle class wage earner" has today after tax, etc., are deducted, yet the C. I. O. has the nerve to strike during our live stock show. On every corner pleas are made to give, give, until the group of wage earners who save and strive to maintain a high standard of living are being demoralized by drones who think the world owes them a living. Let's not be a bunch of sentimentalists. Let's weed our gardens now and pluck out the communistic C. I. O. in America.

VIOLA A. MCATEE.

LA GUARDIA BOOST THE CLIMAX.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—My husband happens to be of Italian ancestry, and our name is in the telephone book. This makes us the targets for all sorts of solicitations from people who think we are Italian-Americans, which is a serious error. We are Americans and nothing else. Most numerous are the circulars from candidates at election time, asking for our votes, not because of what these men have done or nope to do for America, but simply on the strength of their origin. All this trash goes into the waste basket, having produced exactly the opposite effect to that desired by the politicians.

We also get a lot of tripe printed in Italian, which we can't even read, from nostrum manufacturers. As there are about a dozen doctors and druggists in the family, all this nauseating stuff also goes into the furnace. And then there are the religious racketeers, who conclude from our name that we must be ignorant and superstitious, so they bombard us with requests for money, in return for which their medicine men are supposed to perform voodoo spells in behalf of our "dear departed," who can't call us up and tell us if the incantations worked.

But the climax was reached this morning when there came from New York an envelope with the WPA Writers' Project return card in the upper left hand corner, below which is the statement that this is "Official Business," and in the right hand corner the usual "Penalty for Private Use, etc., $300." This envelope contained two circulars, one in Italian, advertising a book about "The Italians of New York," from Columbus to La Guardia, $2. [As Marc Antony said, "Oh, what a fall was there, my countrymen."] So this is what our exorbitant taxes are paying for! So one of the WPA projects is: Emphasizing the un-American side of the hyphen! So Columbus was a New Yorker! So—words fail me! I can only gasp! Excuse me while I pass out. AM I BOINED UP!

A THOUGHT ON IMMIGRATION.

Oak Park, Ill., Dec. 2.—A recent correspondent [H. M.] gives as a reason for letting down the bars on immigration that we have "plenty of room."

Yes, we have millions of acres of land that is too poor to farm profitably. Our heaviest immigration years were between 1903 and 1914, inclusive, when the yearly average was a million.

As all the best farming land had been preëmpted by 1900, the bulk of this later immigration settled in the cities, with the result that all our big cities have acres of slums, where people merely exist.

Slums are a prolific breeding place of crime, which costs the nation 15 billions of dollars annually. It would be a crime to change the restrictions on immigration.

WARM SPRINGS FOUNDER HERE?

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 1.—The letter from Peoria in today's column asking who founded the Warm Springs, Ga., Foundation, brings this matter again to my mind.

It is understood from a reliable source that the man who either founded this Warm Springs Foundation, or was vitally interest in it before F. D. Roosevelt became interested, now lives in Chicago. For a while they worked together and became so intimate that they called each other by their first names until F. D. R. took all the publicity and glory.

THE VALUE IN FOOTBALL.

Warrenville, Ill., Dec. 1.—The two stories in the paper Wednesday concerning athletics are diametrically opposite when viewed from the human interest standpoint. Dr. Hutchins' tirade against athletics is disgusting; the action of the University of Illinois trustees in supporting Coach Zuppke is consoling and heartwarming.

I was a member of the class of 1913, University of Wisconsin. During the first years after I graduated I saw Wisconsin play quite often; then the depression overtook us and there never was the price of admission for both of us, so I stayed home. I became a radio football fan and I have kept up my interest through that means. This fall, with Wisconsin on the upgrade, I had happy hours at the radio each Saturday, and one night [after Wisconsin's victory over Northwestern] I said to my husband:

"How grateful we can be that we live in America and not in Russia or Germany. I believe with all my heart if the populace of those countries could get the thrill over football that I get they could find the courage to throw off their oppressors." A nation that can cheer for a good play, a spectacular run, or a brilliant defensive play has a fundamental balance, because that cheer releases emotions that would be fertile ground for subversive doctrin if not released.

My family could afford 10 cent football games, but rather than see a splendid American custom destroyed I'll take my football by radio until my purse allows attendance. MRS. M. L. HEPP.

FRESH VIEWPOINT NEEDED.

North Chicago, Ill., Dec. 2.—When any one becomes as discouraged in his work as "Disgusted Salesman," he needs a fresh viewpoint. One of the best ways to get that is to go to any veterans' hospital where he will find a great many men who could know no greater happiness than to be mentally and physically able to do sales work.

With such an inspiration he would see sales and purchasing work as dignified professions in which the petty chiseler is soon eliminated. No matter what he is selling, he should be able to find some valued service that he can render which would lift him above the class of a mere merchandise peddler.

I have sold industrial finishes for twenty years and have never had even a hint that a Christmas present would be acceptable, nor have I ever, to my knowledge, lost business because I did not give out Christmas presents.

LOGIC AND CENTRAL Y. M. C. A.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—I notice in your column a letter from a Mr. Bruce concerning radical propaganda at the Central Y. M. C. A.

There are approximately 2,000 members of Central department of the Y. M. C. A. and 3,000 students enrolled in the college. Is the word of one individual and a promiscuously placed sticker sufficient grounds for a generalization branding the college and Central department as a "Red" stronghold?

May I suggest that Mr. Bruce enroll in the college and take a course in logic and after completing the course and after making a survey of the "political color" of the students—think this matter over as he so apparently did not do in the past. A STUDENT.

COSTA RICA RUNS SHORT ON TIMBER FOR PRESIDENCY

One Candidate Stands Out for 1939 Campaign.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Dec. 1.—[By Air Mail.]—There appears to be a shortage of presidential candidates in Costa Rica.

President Cortes Castro.

President Don Leon Cortes Castro has another year to serve, but the electorate already is showing much interest in the 1939 presidential campaign.

At the moment Dr. Calderon Guardia, the head of the National Republican party, is the one certain candidate. He is greatly admired here, and there are many expressions of public opinion that it will be difficult to find a suitable candidate to oppose him. Several opposition leaders already have declined to run against him.

Fear Dangerous Precedent.

Many persons fear that an uncontested election would be a dangerous precedent because it could be used as the basis for exclusive government control and for dominating and deciding future elections. Other persons see merit in the economies and peacefulness of a one man campaign.

San José is a modern capital with a population of 65,000. It is located in the center of Costa Rica and its greatest asset is its altitude of 3,900 feet, a fact which gives it a temperate climate the year round. The city is in a basin bordered by peaks.

Smart publicity has built up an excellent tourist trade for San José, much better than that of other Central American countries. The city is easily reached. An overnight boat from Cristobal, Panama, lands at Costa Rica's chief Caribbean port, the banana port, Limon. Then the rail journey to San José is only 103 miles. Pacific ports are about seventy-five miles from San José.

Clouds Cover Scenery.

Passengers aboard the airliner from Managua, Nicaragua, today were deprived of seeing much of Costa Rica's scenery by an extensive cloud blanket. The clouds cleared as we approached San José.

From the air the surrounding countryside had an appearance of prosperity. The farms were in neat layouts and appeared well cultivated. Coffee plantations extend right up to the edge of the city.

The airport is very small and in a miserable location. It is way out from the city and difficult to reach. Our reception committee was a cattle roundup in an adjoining pasture.

The National theater is one of the first places to attract attention. It is gorgeously done with solid marble balconies and stairways, beautiful sculpture, gold and bronze decorations, an immense ceiling, and many wall paintings. It was built forty years ago.

San José is noted for its orchids. Costa Rica has more varieties than any other tropical country. An avenue named after them is said to have more than 200 varieties growing along it.

Seeks Her Child

HELEN REYNOLDS.

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Amid reports of an out-of-court settlement, the separation battle between Helen Fortescue Reynolds and her tobacco heir husband is scheduled for another engagement tomorrow before Justice William T. Collins in Manhattan Supreme court.

Mrs. Reynolds, who has been receiving $250 a month temporary alimony, would like her husband, Julian, to give her $1,500 every month and hand her attorney $15,000 for his labors in her behalf.

The battle will rage hottest, however, around the dimpled person of 15-months-old Richard Reynolds. His mother demands his custody along with a separation decree, but at last accounts he was at the home of his paternal grandparents in Richmond, Va. His father took him there last June 14, while his pursuing mother just missed him when the train stopped briefly at Newark.

FISHER PLANT STRIKE OF C. I. O. IS SETTLED BY GENERAL MOTORS

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 5 [Monday].—(AP)—General Motors corporation today announced the settlement of a C. I. O. strike in the Fisher body plant No. 1 at Flint.

Negotiators for the corporation and the United Automobile Workers' union reached the settlement after midnight in a conference which opened at noon yesterday.

A General Motors spokesman said employés at the Fisher plant and also the Buick division, which had been affected by the strike, would return to work as soon as possible. The strike began Friday noon.

C. I. O. ENDS STRIKE AT STOCKYARDS; MAYOR IS ARBITER

Chicago's thirteen day stockyards strike ended yesterday. Through Mayor Kelly peace terms were agreed to by the stockyards company and the striking C. I. O. union, local No. 567. Workers were back on their jobs early today and live stock from nearby points was rolling in on trucks.

"Farm producers have been notified we are ready for business," said O. T. Henkle, general manager of the Union Stock Yards and Transit company. "Most of the shipments come from a radius of less than a hundred miles and can reach us in a few hours. We expect a sizable sale the first day and normal supplies the rest of the week."

By the terms of the agreement, the C. I. O. union is recognized as sole bargaining agent and negotiations for a settlement of other points at issue are to be continued. It was also agreed that the resulting settlement will be put into writing. The men have been assured that they will be given back their jobs without discrimination. No mention was made of a closed shop and a checkoff, demanded when the strike was called.

Mayor Kelly transmitted the company's offer to the union leaders on Saturday and it was accepted by a general vote of the membership yesterday morning.

COUGHS, TICKLE Huskiness Due to Colds

Tormented with throat huskiness, dryness, coughs due to colds? Let a Vicks Cough Drop dissolve naturally in your mouth. It bathes tender throat tissues with medication for 12 to 15 minutes, and comforting relief comes fast. Vicks are really medicated . . . medicated with the throat-soothing ingredients of Vicks VapoRub . . . famous for relieving discomforts due to colds.

MEDICATED VICKS COUGH DROPS

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

PEACE

of mind and body quickly follows proper venereal disease treatment. Get it immediately from your family physician or this reliable clinic!

WHY ALLOW a neglected venereal infection to make your life a living hell? It's so unnecessary when specialized medical attention is now within reach of even the lowest paid worker!

You have absolutely no idea of how much better you will feel, both mentally and physically, once you have put yourself in the hands of a competent physician or clinic. You will find that most of your worst fears are unfounded—that syphilis and gonorrhea are almost invariably curable when treated in time, and also that their more painful symptoms can generally be relieved in short order!

So why not make the coming holiday season a happy one by beginning proper treatment—at once? Not only will it bring you almost immediate peace of mind and body, but you will be protecting yourself against the dire results of neglecting a venereal disease too long.

For syphilis, when long neglected, can easily lead to heart disease, blindness, deafness, paralysis, nervous breakdowns or even insanity. And long neglected gonorrhea can be the cause of a sight-destroying eye infection, sterility, stricture, crippling arthritis, or prostate, bladder and other troubles!

Self Treatment is Dangerous

Whatever you do, don't make the tragic mistake of trying to treat syphilis or gonorrhea yourself. For most self medication merely drives such infections under cover and makes them harder to cure in the end! The few dollars you may save will have to be spent many times over when you are finally forced to consult a physician.

Therefore, take no chances with a venereal disease, but get dependable medical attention immediately. Such treatment can be obtained from your family doctor, or you can get it at the Public Health Institute.

The Public Health Institute is the largest self-supporting venereal disease clinic in the entire world. Since its establishment in 1920, it has given more than 5 million examinations and treatments for syphilis and gonorrhea!

Obviously, any institution with this wealth of experience is qualified to render a medical service of a very superior nature. At the Public Health Institute you are assured of treatment such as you would expect to receive were you to consult a leading specialist!

What "Not-for-Profit" Means

The Public Health Institute was organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois. This means that a thorough examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and gonorrheal smears, can be had at surprisingly small cost, and that treatments are available at fees so low as to be within the reach of every worker.

Nor is that all! The Public Health Institute also makes it possible for those who are temporarily short of funds to arrange to be treated. Thus, as no one is turned away, not a single venereal disease sufferer need be deprived of specialized treatment!

Nancy Brown Is Betrothed to C. B. Jones

BY JUDITH CASS.

Of interest this morning is the announcement Dr. and Mrs. E. V. L. Brown of Winnetka are making of the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to Clarence Boyd Jones, son of Mrs. Walter Clyde Jones and the late Mr. Jones of Evanston. The wedding will take place the first week in April.

The announcement of the engagement of pretty and popular Miss Brown to young Mr. Jones, who always is called Bud, will not come as a surprise to many of their close friends, for he has been a devoted suitor. Miss Brown, who is a member of the Chicago Junior league, is a graduate of the North Shore Country Day school and of Smith college, where she was graduated with the class of 1937. She was introduced to society at a tea at home on Christmas day four years ago.

Mr. Jones is a graduate of the Hill school, Yale university, and of the Northwestern university law school. He is practicing law in Chicago. He rides with the Longmeadow Hounds, and his marriage will further deplete the ranks of young, unmarried men members of this hunt, who at one time were so numerous that it was known as the "bachelor hunt." Mr. Jones is chairman of the hunt's annual landowners' party tomorrow at the Shawnee Country club in Wilmette

Jane Quantrell, Former Chicagoan, Is Engaged.

From Bronxville, N. Y., where Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Quantrell, former Chicagoans, now are living, has come word of the announcement Mr. and Mrs. Quantrell are making today of the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to Harry E. Sloan Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Sloan of Hartford, Conn. Miss Quantrell attended the Madeira school and was graduated from Smith last June. Mr. Sloan attended the Kingswood school and is a graduate of the Sheffield Scientific school of Yale. The wedding will take place next spring.

Judsons and Bells Plan Jolly Sub-Deb Party.

A jolly party for the sub-deb group has been planned by the Clay Judsons and the Laird Bells, who will entertain for their daughters, Alice Clay Judson and Nathalie Bell. The party will be a dinner-dance at the Ambassador East on Friday, Dec. 30. The young people will have dinner in the Wedgwood and Polo rooms and will move into the Pump room later for dancing.

Alice Clay and Nathalie are seniors at the Milton academy. Alice Clay has elected to attend the University of Chicago next winter, which pleases her parents, for, although she will live on the campus, she will be at home far oftener than she is now while in the east.

Invitations Out for Party for Melita Uihlein Seipp.

Invitations are out for a tea-dance Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Seipp and Edwin A. Seipp Jr. are giving at the Casino on Dec. 27 for Miss Melita Uihlein Seipp. Members of the Princeton Triangle club, which is giving a performance that night at the Civic Opera house, have been invited to the party.

Also out are invitations to a tea-dance the F. Goddard Cheneys, the J. Francis Dammanns, and Mr. and Mrs. Marcus D. Richards are giving at the Indian Hill club on Dec. 26 for the debutante daughters, Miss Jane Cheney, Miss Nancy Dammann, and Miss Marie Louise Richards.

Katherine Lefens to Give Party for Young Marrieds.

The young marrieds are not being forgotten in the round of pre-Christmas entertaining, for Miss Katherine Lefens is planning a gay dinner-dance for the night of Saturday, Dec. 17. She is giving the party for her nephew, Lefens Porter, and his bride of last September, the former Marjorie Walsh of Brookline, and her niece, Mrs. William Denison Dunning [Mary Chatillon], and Mr. Dunning. It will be given in a vacant apartment at 60 Scott street, the building in Memorial Concert (Unlabeled).

The music critics particularly praised the Women's Symphony orchestra after its last week's concert. What they did not know was that each girl in the orchestra was playing for the harpist whose mother had just died. She had been a kind of symphony mother, too, for she never had failed to attend a concert or rehersal since the founding of the orchestra. The harpist insisted on playing in spite of the advice of doctors and friends because her mother had so enjoyed the rehersal. She played brilliantly; so did the rest of the orchestra.

We know, because she was on an Illinois Central suburban train one day recently, and when the conductor came around to collect tickets she handed him her last weight and fortune card, which read, You have loved and lost and are now ready to love again. The conductor read it, looked sympathetic and said, "Gee, lady, that's too bad; but you still have to have a ticket."

Rose Bampton's Ovation Halts 'Il Trovatore'

BY CECIL SMITH.

Rose Bampton, the American dramatic soprano who was a contralto until two years ago, received one of the roundest ovations of the season in last night's special performance of "Il Trovatore." At the end of the "D'amor sull' ali rosee" aria in the fourth act long continued applause such as is usually reserved for Galliano Masini in "Tosca" or Beniamino Gigli in "Martha" completely stopped the show for several minutes.

Evidently last night's good sized audience was fully aware that it was participating in one of the high experiences of the autumn. Miss Bampton's Leonora is the most beautifully conceived performance of the rôle we have had offered to us since the unforgettable years of Claudia Muzio's association with it.

A powerful emotional impulse runs through all of her singing, yet she never fails to express her emotion through the legitimate medium of exquisite phrasing and flowing legato. Her full chest register, a desirable remnant of her contralto days, is an asset equaled by her delicate high pianissimo and her sturdy, full voiced top tones.

It was an important operatic event. The only pity is that the company's regular subscribers will not hear Miss Bampton in this rôle, assisted by a cast more willing to emulate her artistry than most of her fellow principals were last night. "Il Trovatore" should be sung and not shouted, phrased and not barked.

Jean Williams' driving performance of the solo piano part of Liszt's "Totentanz" proved to be a more exciting feature of yesterday afternoon's Illinois Symphony orchestra concert than the eagerly anticipated Chicago première of Sibelius' Sixth symphony. The young pianist approached Liszt's dramatic extemporizations upon the ancient "Dies Irae" plainsong melody with fearless assurance. Except for an ill judged attempt to make the bass part more sonorous by an overdose of the damper pedal she brought a virtuoso's flair and a virtuoso's facility to all the noisy, flashy passages, at the same time that she employed a lucid tone and a poetic approach in the more lyrical episodes.

The Sibelius symphony, the last by the Finnish composer to be uncovered in Chicago, disappointed both those who hoped for more of the rugged, epigrammatic profundity of the Fourth symphony and those who longed for the resounding perorations of the Second and Fifth. Much of the symphony is restrained to the point of failing to make contact with the audience. The development of the themes, which are hardly ever stated simply to begin with, seems always to stop and turn in another direction before the first direction has been explored to any point of conclusion.

In short, the symphony has moments of melodic exquisiteness and harmonic interest, but does not "come off" as well as the other six.

Izler Solomon conducted effectively, but did not always discover a proper balance between themes and accompaniment figures. The program was rounded out by Berlioz's "Roman Carnival" overture, Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll," and the overture to Johann Strauss' "The Gypsy Baron."

Trio Revives 18th Century Instruments

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Undismayed by the fact that the Wrigley building quarters of the Arts club command a view of skyscrapers and modern bridges, the people who gathered there last evening succeeded in thinking themselves back into the eighteenth century. For one thing, the little music hall was lit with dozens of candles which flickered gently in the best eighteenth century manner. For another, the stage held a trio of the sort which used to speed many a dull Sunday evening back in the early 1700s.

Harpsichord, viola da gamba, and flute—this is the make-up of the Cologne chamber music trio which last evening made its first Chicago appearance. The three instruments were played by Karl Hermann Pillney, Karl Maria Schwamberger, and Reinhold Fritsche, respectively. The harpsichord is a soft-spoken ancestor of the piano, the viola da gamba might pass in the dark for a 'cello. The recorder, on which Mr. Fritsche doubled, is a flute blown at the end instead of on the side.

The music was of a kindly sort, full of delicate color differentiations within a small compass and rich in candid flowing melodies. Besides the more familiar eighteenth century composers, the program held such names as Leclair, Loeillet—and Frederick the Great! The last named was a flutist of parts, and a composer more remarkable for the quantity than for the quality of his output.

Jascha Heifetz took his place yesterday in the parade of first rate violinists which has been winding in and out of Chicago lately. To the Civic Opera house to hear him went an audience whose size was an index to his phenomenal drawing power and whose intentness became an eloquent commentary on the quality of what Mr. Heifetz had to give.

So impassive and aloof was the violinist's bearing that the warmth of his performance of such things as "Deep River" and "From the Canebrake" must have taken any first timers in the audience by surprise. The spiritual fairly burst with understanding and with the will to communicate the burden of the song, the dancy little canebrake piece boasted a lilt and an earthiness of its own.

These two pieces were part of an American group which included also Cecil Burleigh's "Giant Hills" and Victor Herbert's "A la Valse." The latter piece was enthusiastically encored, even though too heavy a bow arm quite spoiled the middle section. This heavy bow wreaked havoc also in several of the bravura sections of the preceding Paganini concerto.

Harry Hartwell, a tenor who has had considerable experience in the field of light opera abroad, sang German lieder and excerpts from operas and operettas in his Studebaker theater recital of yesterday afternoon. His voice quality is fair and often good, his general musical manner hurt by the lack of a true legato.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 4.—Notre Dame's defeat cost the movie performers a small fortune, most of the movie celebs not only giving 2 to 1 and 8 to 5 odds, but also tossing in six points for good measure. . . . "Bubbles" Schinazi, cigaret heiress, arrived yesterday by plane to wed Wayne Morris. . . . Will Rogers Jr. and Eleanor Harris jitter-bugging. . . . Now it's Geraldine Spreckels and Art Jarrett. . . . Olivia De Havilland and G. Brent are more serious than you think. . . . Joan Fontaine and Conrad Nagel have iced. . . . Binnie Barnes has switched to Norman Krasna. . . . The Bill Wellmans expect Sir Stork in March. . . . Mary Brian and Anthony Averill a combination. . . . The Bester Morris reconciliation happened, as itemed in this space. It's always nicer to write about a reconciliation than a bust-up. . . . Loretta Young absented herself from town over the week-end to sidestep the Buckner story out of New York. She really likes him.

Why did Big Boy Williams jump out of a second story window at Modesto? . . . Carole Lombard, in signing for an RKO picture, stipulated that if she decided to play Scarlett O'Hara her RKO contract would have to wait until June. That if she didn't take the O'Hara rôle she'd be ready for the RKO flicker in February. That is the real inside on the Scarlett situation. If she doesn't take the part [and there are certain stipulations she insists upon], Paulette Goddard has better than an even money chance.

Jocky Jack Westrope and Nan Grey have it bad. . . . All of Adolph Zukor's supporters will feel the Paramount ax via "resignations." Borros Morros was the first to beat the guillotine to it. . . . Zanuck and the Ritz Brothers have kissed and made up; it was plenty close to a crisis! Studios, however, rarely exile performers who make money at the box office. . . . Laugh in the news: Margo turning down an offer to appear with José Iturbi's orchestra on the grounds she didn't want to dance in front of a band. She was dancing in front of a band at the Waldorf when she got her movie break. . . . Now it's Jack Warner Jr. and Lorraine Sender.

Rudy Vallee's "shove-push" of a noisy customer who was voicing his critical displeasure of one of Rudy's numbers at the Cocoanut Grove raises an interesting point. Does a customer who has paid a cover charge in a night club or hotel room have the right to express verbal dissatisfaction with the service of the performers or the waiters, and to make audible that dissatisfaction? The answer is, apparently, that a customer who goes to a night club room where Rudy Vallee is performing should have made up his mind beforehand that Mr. Vallee would sing his songs and phrase his pleasantries. Once having arrived, the customer, it seems to me, has a tacit obligation not only to respect the performers but also to respect the right of other guests to their enjoyment.

Two columnists who don't talk collaborated in raising the additional bail for Col. Snyder. You'd be amazed at the former Broadway stars who promised the Gimp to help him, and then welshed on a sum as low as $250. Millionaires, mind you. I don't

Good Morning!

New York, Palm Beach, Galveston, and Montana all have their fling as backgrounds for this comedy drama.

With such glamorous leads as Merle Oberon and Gary Cooper—supported by such capable support as DOES support—a far worse story than "The Cowboy and the Lady" would get by, and this yarn has several unique sequences that raise its average somewhat above the mediocre.

The "lady" is Mary Smith, daughter of a wealthy widower who aspires to the nomination for president. Mary has been his hostess and subordinated her own wishes to promoting her father's political ambitions.

And then—she meets the "cowboy"—and marries him. . . . And hell breaks loose. BUT

Them thar cowboys of ye western plains ain't a-lettin' any highty tighty millionaires and their offspring TELL 'em! Cowboy Stretch has all the eastern ultras eating out of his hand by the grand finale.

Mr. Cooper dominates the picture in a lazy, likable style. . . . Merle Oberon is charming and appealing. Harry Davenport, as Mary's sympathetic, twinkling, understanding uncle is a card. His delineation of a jitterbug, in a "tisket, tasket" sequence, is awfully funny. Patsy Kelly and Mabel Todd, as the maids who take the lonely Mary on the "blind date" that results in her romance, give snappy performances. All other players please.

I guess you'll like "The Cowboy and the Lady" all right.

See you tomorrow.

Her Second Choice

By Elizabeth York Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy refuses to follow the advice of her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender, and encourage Bob Matherson, rich young bachelor, recent owner of Fairways, an estate near to the modest English cottage where Nora lives with her aunt until Nora's fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock, whose family live next door, writes from Calcutta breaking the engagement. Heartbroken Nora writes Jim that she'll marry the first man who asks her. She hears Jim is returning home for Christmas, with a wife. At a dinner party at his home Bob takes Nora up to his Tower room and proposes. Nora agrees to marry him before Christmas—in spite of designing Mrs. Pearl Almy, who has rented a cottage on Bob's estate. Three days before the wedding Jim returns, without a wife, and demands that Nora run away with him. Mrs. Almy interrupts their meeting.

INSTALMENT VII.

MORALLY PLEDGED.

Mrs. Almy did not act as though she had seen anything.

"Well, if it isn't Jim Murdock!" she cried. "I thought you were in China, or some such place. I hope Bonzo didn't bite you."

Her smile included Nora, but her bright eyes kept coming back to Jim.

"Which way are you going?" she asked.

"I have to get home at once," Nora said. "I am late as it is."

Jim said: "I'll walk along with you if I may, Mrs. Almy."

"Goodbye, I must run," said Nora, her voice shrill with hysteria.

It was only across the road from the edge of the common to the cottage, and she was over it, through the gate and inside the house within a few seconds.

When the door was closed she leaned heavily against it, breathing hard with her hands pressed to her heart.

For a few moments she stood like that, trembling from head to foot, faint with emotion. Then Mrs. Callender called out to her.

"Is that you, Nora?"

The sound of her aunt's voice pulled her together.

"Yes . . . I'll be up in a moment," she called back.

She stumbled into the dining room and poured herself a glass of water, and while she was drinking it Mrs. Bull came in from the kitchen to put away the tea things.

"Has anybody been here while I was away?" Nora asked.

Mrs. Bull said nobody had been, except a boy from the post office with two more parcels.

Nora went up to her aunt's room.

"I was beginning to get worried. Did you come back alone?" Mrs. Callender asked.

"Yes . . . Bob was called to the phone for a long distance call. He said he would look in after supper. How are you feeling, dear?"

"O, I'm ever so much better. The rest has done me good, I guess. I've been doing too much lately for one of my years, but after Thursday I can take things easy. Did you run into Mrs. Almy? I heard that dog of hers just now."

"Yes, she was coming across the common."

Aunt Dorothy sniffed. "She always is. Nora, there is something I ought to tell you. When you are married look out for that woman. Just because Bob's a married man won't make a pin's worth of difference to her."

"When I am married!" Nora said under her breath.

She began to shiver again and spread her hands to the tiny grate.

There was silence for a little while. Nora knew she would have to tell Aunt Dorothy that Jim Murdock was back, and that he hadn't married that girl, but she did not want to mention it until she had made up her mind what she was going to do about Jim.

After awhile she said: "Darling, it's been bothering me a lot . . . that I've got to leave you. It seems so selfish of me—as though I was thinking only of myself. It doesn't seem right you should be left all alone in the cottage, especially at nights."

Could she lead up in this way, to saying she felt she could not marry Bob Matherson. It was the only thing she could think of, but it sounded downright silly, and it was certainly hypocritical.

"You don't need to worry about that, Nora. I didn't mean to tell you until later, perhaps, but I'm provided for. The youngest Bull girl is coming to stay with me. It was fixed up this morning. And I'm having Mrs. Bull just the same as before, and she'll train Annie. My, I shan't know myself!"

"But, Aunt Dorothy! How can you afford it? You know how you have had to scrimp and save as it is, and now—thanks to what you have done for me—you'll have less than before, even."

A plum colored blush suffused Mrs. Callender's pendulous cheeks, and she said hurriedly: "I don't know what you'll think of me for doing it, Nora, but you know how kind and generous Bob is."

Nora nodded guiltily. Indeed, she had every reason to know.

"Well, after you went to the village this morning he looked in to see how I was——."

"Yes, you told me."

"But I didn't tell you what he said. In fact, he said practically what you did, just now, and I expect he had got wind of my raising the money for your clothes and all. Anyway, whether I want it or not, it seems I can't help accepting it. You know how he does things——"

"Accepting what, Aunt Dorothy?" Nora asked apprehensively.

"Well, it's the matter of five pounds weekly, paid straight into my account," Mrs. Callender admitted, as casually as she could manage. "So you see, Nora, I shall be in clover for the rest of my life."

Nora saw all too clearly.

"You aren't . . . annoyed with me, are you?" her aunt pleaded. "I mean, as Bob said it's the same as if I was your mother, and he said he couldn't let his wife's mother want for anything. Not that I said I should be getting short, or even hinted such a thing. I hope it hasn't upset you, Nora."

"I think it was very kind of him," Nora said quietly.

She went over and kissed her aunt and rearranged the pillows.

"O, by the way, Jim Murdock is back, and it seems he didn't get married after all. I met him just now as I was coming from Fairways."

"Lord ha' mercy!" cried Aunt Dorothy. "But I might have known that's just what he would do."

Nora managed a twisted sort of smile.

"It's all right, darling. Don't get excited. Everything is over between Jim and me—over forever and ever."

She had to rush out of the room then lest she break down and betray herself.

If her bridges hadn't been burned before, they were now.

With Bob's generosity heaped on top of Aunt Dorothy's, she had no choice in the matter.

O yes, she could walk out of the house and "go away" with Jim—whatever he meant by that.

But if she did it would be over her aunt's broken heart, and against her own sense of decency where Bob Matherson was concerned. Bob had his rights, she was morally pledged to him.

After supper Bob came in. Nora had to receive him in the dining room, since the parlor was strewn with her new clothes. Tomorrow she must begin to pack.

Bob had given her a fascinating array of luggage, marked with her new initials—wardrobe trunk, dressing bag, shoe box, and hat bag. The dressing bag had tortoise shell fittings, also marked N. M. in filigree gold.

And now he had another present which he took out of his pocket and handed to her. This, he said, was her real present and she must wear it on her wedding day.

Mrs. Callender had begged him not to give Nora pearls until after they were married, for her psychic sense told her pearls were unlucky for brides. But here was a pearl necklace and it had an emerald clasp, which Mrs. Callender would not like, either, for in her opinion green was an unlucky color.

Nora stared in awe at the lovely thing, gleaming on its bed of white velvet.

"I don't know what to say, Bob."

"Say you like it—if you do like it."

"I couldn't very well help liking it—could I?"

She drew his head down and kissed him.

It's funny how all of us women now and then run out of party refreshment ideas. It isn't that we don't know about any good recipes or combinations of food, it's just that we require some sort of stimulus to get our thought processes in order. Then the ideas start coming thick and fast, and our problem is how to choose among them.

Holiday bridge parties don't usually call for much food, but the food we serve must be especially nice and particularly attractive. I believe that there are a few good suggestions in this group of menus.

Cleveland Team Wins Open Pair Title in Bridge Tournament

Cleveland, O., Dec. 4.—(AP)—A Cleveland team tonight won the open pair championship of the American Contract league, most important title at stake in the league's tournament.

The new champions, who ended a long reign by eastern titleholders, were Mrs. Harry E. Funk, one of Cleveland's leading woman players, and Franke Bubna, a Cleveland city official.

Second place went to a pair of New Yorkers, Mrs. A. M. Sobol, one of America's six leading woman players, and Alphonse Meyse, editor of a New York bridge magazine. In third place were Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lemon of Washington, D. C. Lemon, a broker, yesterday was elected president of the bridge league.

Members of the national bridge laws commission considered a new rules change proposed today by Oswald Jacoby, one of the contract game's leading figures. It would provide a bonus for a team defeating an adverse contract five tricks or more.

"With a rule like that," he said, "a pair is prevented from taking a 'ridiculous' set in order to prevent opponents from scoring slams."

which Mr. Porter's mother, Mrs. Frank S. Porter, lives.

The young Porters moved on Saturday from Mrs. Porter's to their own apartment in East Elm street. The Dunnings, who have been living here for several years, also have an apartment in East Elm. Her brother and sister, Ralph F. Chatillon and Miss Jane Chatillon, both formerly of Syracuse, have taken an apartment in East Division street. Miss Chatillon is a dog fancier, and raises cocker spaniels. She has a favorite dog here, but she keeps the others in Syracuse.

Anne Harvey Exhibits Her Paintings in Paris.

Mrs. Harry Harvey of New York, who is spending the winter in Chicago, has had word from Paris of the success of the exhibition of paintings Anne Harvey, 23 years old, has been having there since Nov. 18. The show, which is in the Galerie de Beaune, closed last Friday. Miss Harvey is following in the footsteps of her aunt, Miss Katharine Dudley, in painting. Miss Dudley has been her niece's only teacher, but she has given the young artist little instruction, for, as Brancusi said in his brief introduction in the catalog of the Paris show, "Annie is a young girl who has not asked advice of any one about how to paint."

Mrs. Harvey, the former Dorothy Dudley, and her sister, Mme. Joseph Delteil of Paris [Caroline Dudley], are in Chicago this winter doing over the apartment building at 242 East Walton street in which their late parents, Dr. and Mrs. Emilius C. Dudley, lived for many years. Miss Dudley lives in Paris.

Mrs. Harvey and Mme. Deltell are among the nine friends of Mrs. Edmond Rafferty who are setting holiday tables at the Little Traveler and who will be hostesses there today, tomorrow, and Wednesday when the tables are on display. The other hostesses will be Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III, Mrs. Scott Linn, Mrs. John Dole, Mrs. Montgomery Orr, Mrs. Columbus Healy, Mrs. Harry Van Liew, and Mrs. Gove Compton.

Many Dinners to Precede Lunt-Fontaine Opening.

Dozens of dinner parties have been planned for tonight preceding the opening of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in "Amphitryon 38" at the Erlanger theater. Most of those in the audience will be regular subscribers to the Theater guild and American Theater society which have brought the Lunts here.

Alexander Kipnis, basso, will make his only Chicago appearance of the season tonight at Orchestra hall under the auspices of the Bohemians of Chicago, which is headed by Avern B. Scolnik. Dr. Frederick A. Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, is honorary president of this organization, which is a state of mind and not a national group, according to the committee.

Among those who have taken seats are Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Wentworth Field, Mrs. Charles S. Reed, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, and the John F. Wellings.

The board of Emerson Settlement house has taken over the collectors' corner at a downtown store for this week. A percentage of the sales will go to the settlement. Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler and Mrs. Philip Maher have set tables using some of the antiques on display.

An Utterly Practical Pattern

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME FROCK.

In the midst of the flurry about utterly feminine thisa and thata concerning Christmas gift giving, we would like to interject a cool note, a practical one. We're offering one of those utterly solid wardrobe items today, the inevitable and ever useful house frock. This model has tailored simplicity and charm. It takes beautifully to all the inexpensive cottons and other washables. It suits every figure type, and it's easy to make.

The neckline may be V with a wide lapel collar, or it may be V and left plain except for any trimming you care to give it. If you select the collared version, give the frock cuffs to match and place a bit of the contrasting fabric, or self-material if you choose, on the capacious pocket. Trim all these with rickrack braid, that inexpensive and easy to apply commodity. Buttons do their share at the left side, and there is a belt that fastens this wrap-around model securely to the figure.

For the collarless version ruffling or ruching is ideal. It also may trim the closing length of the frock. Prints and plaids, as well as checks and plain colors, make up well.

Style No. 3041 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20 years, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 35 inch material, with 1¼ yards of 35 inch contrasting and 4 yards of braid or ruffling.

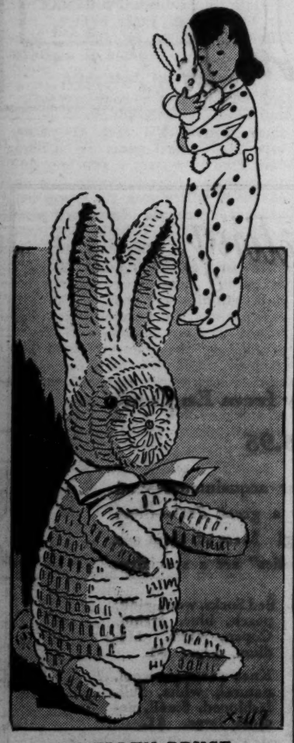
Cuddly Bunny Is a Long Suffering Toy for Infants



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A soft, cuddly pink and white bunny and a small pink and white baby are an appealing team. Bunny is baby's inseparable companion who may be chewed, thrown about, and stepped on without uttering a word of complaint. Hand crocheted in pink and white, this intriguing bunny may be made at a small cost and in a comparatively short time. He then is stuffed, tied up with an engaging pink ribbon at his neck, his eyes attached, and there he is, ready to play.

For crocheting instructions for the bunny, No. X-117, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

'Women Only' Shop Features Gifts for Men

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Among the bright ideas of the season is the shop "for women only"; a place to give first aid to bewildered women hunting for something to please all the important men on their Christmas lists.

Such a place is crammed with loot for the finicky male, staffed with good looking, helpful masculine experts, and only women shoppers are allowed within the walls. The collections include everything from socks to sticks, everything has been selected and approved by knowing men.

Shirts, ties, socks, scarfs, gloves and even robes are massed into displays that have everything — color, contrast, designs and new patterns. Lounging outfits are complete to the slippers. Good, husky masculine furniture goes on display with all the cocktail fixings and a collection of sticks and umbrellas. Books, reading lights, smoking paraphernalia, stunning pottery wine jugs, electric clocks, lether treasures, wallets, key rings, toilet cases, book covers, lether desk sets, bronze desk sets, anything and everything that a man appreciates if it is sturdy, swanky and without any hint of being sissy.

All the wool stuff is especially intriguing, from the robes to the Scotch and other plaid scarfs. New tuxedo shirts, with tucked shirt fronts and collar attached, as well as full dress accessories, are exhibited.

Such a shop gives a woman a chance to buy the right gifts for men; a grand spot to shop for all the newest gadgets, all the newest and approved masculine necessities as well as luxuries.

Plain Girl Looks in Mirror, Gets New Personality

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Writes Maureen: "Some time ago you wrote a piece about somebody or other who advised women to look at themselves in the mirror and say, 'I am beautiful' and try to carry the air of being truly beautiful around with them all day. Well, that certainly helped me! You see, I have big brown eyes—with that sorrowful expression like Farmer Gray's pet cow's—a pug nose—not slightly tilted—plain pug. Lips that are full—too full and, of course, to add to the picture—a slight smattering of freckles—about a million! [But, of course, I'm happy!]

"So, when I finally looked myself squarely in the eye and wiped off the grin that was lurking there, and brought myself to say, 'Yes, I am beautiful.' Well, the result was a fit of laughter that ended near hysterics! But the image of myself standing there and telling myself such a thing kept a happy expression on my face all day, and the result was that people suddenly seemed a lot friendlier. So, I want to thank you for finding a way to keep a happy expression on my face and a lighter feeling in my heart . . . which, of course, resulted in a quick rise in popularity.

"To shift to another theme, this business of the hair being up or down has me quite daffy, to say the least! Not that I can't determine which way I should wear mine. That question was solved long ago when I returned from the hairdresser with my hair up, ready to 'mow 'em down,' and friend husband said it reminded him of his grandmother's washwoman. That settled that, not only because the light of my life made that remark, but because what he said was true, and I wasn't afraid to realize that the upsweep was not for me!

"The answer to this question for any woman is: Wear it the way it looks better."

ENGAGEMENT

Mrs. Charles A. Katholing of 2200 East 70th place announces the engagement of her daughter, Margaret, to John J. Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Burke of Milwaukee. Miss Katholing is a graduate of St. Mary's college, Notre Dame, Ind. Mr. Burke is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame and of the law school of Marquette university. The wedding will take place in February.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Have you seen in your shopping rounds the Christmas tree package that conceals three little flacons of perfumes? This stands about 8 inches high. The tree itself is blue, frosted generously with silvery snow, and lifts up to reveal the perfumes snugly set in the base. It's a most decorative little gift.

The perfumes are three good ones, each quite different in type from the other. One of these in particular is a great favorite of ours and has been for many years. It's sophisticated, but not lacking in sweetness. The other two are excellent and there could be plenty of times when we'd love to have them within reach. It's always fun to have an assortment of perfumes from which to choose. This Christmas tree gift is amazingly inexpensive.

For your "little" gifts don't overlook the cunning plaster tree ornaments that present small flacons of perfumes in a new and jolly fashion. There's a Santa Claus with white plaster head and shoulders and a round, round body that's a bottle of fine perfume.

Then there are three adorable little carolers, carrying slim bottles of perfume, red tipped, that look like Christmas candles.

Or maybe you'd like the little cherub, also of white plaster, in beautifully draped angelic robe, who holds in her arms a single slender bottle of perfume that resembles a taper. This, too, can hang on the tree.

To hang on the wall there is a white wreath, in the center three perfume flacons, and above them a bow of red ribbon. All these, in Christmas boxes, are quite beautiful and very low priced. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Lord and Thomas Give Community Fund $20,000

Ralph A. Bard, chairman of the community fund campaign, announced yesterday that Lord & Thomas had contributed $20,000. This brought the total raised by the advertising division of the fund to $80,417. Mr. Bard said that the fund total was now less than $700,000 from the goal of $3,550,000 set at the start. The money raised will be used to help finance 175 of Chicago's private charities through the next year.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

This hand was based on Question 45, answered below.

West opened the deuce of clubs and declarer won with the eight spot. The nine of diamonds then was led and passed. East won with the jack and gave careful consideration to his return. First, of course, he gave thought to the virtue of returning his partner's original lead. It took only a few seconds to conclude that this would be futile. West had shown a four card suit by leading the deuce, and this placed declarer with an original holding of five clubs. The fact that declarer had won the first trick with the eight spot indicated that he had considerable strength left in the suit and, in any event, if East returned a club at this point he would be unable to make another club lead later. Thus it was almost impossible that sufficient defensive club tricks could be taken to defeat the contract.

Staring East in the face were a great many diamond tricks in dummy within one trick of establishment. If East could shut out these tricks at the expense of only one trick, it was an odds-on chance that the investment would pay handsome dividends. East did not fear dummy's heart queen as an entry because he himself was over it with the king, but the spade ace was a decided menace. To lead a low spade would not insure removing the ace. Declarer might well be able to hold a trick in his own hand. The only method of surely removing the ace was to lay down the spade king. Having reached this conclusion, East promptly made this Deschapelles coup, and by so doing, squashed any chance declarer had of fulfilling the contract.

ANSWER TO LAST MONDAY'S QUESTION.

Q. No. 45: You should return the spade king. [This is a Deschapelles coup.] You have another diamond stopper, but unless you immediately remove dummy's outside entry, the diamond suit will be established for your tricks. Your partner's fourth best lead showed that declarer had more clubs than your partner held, hence there is no future in a club return. For full explanation, see Today's Hand, above. [No demerit for improper return, but take 25 points CREDIT for returning spade king.]

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Another capacity crowd—17,894 paid to get in—went to the Boston Bruin-Chicago Blackhawk hocky match in the Stadium last night. If they went to see the Bruins in rapid skating and effective shooting they got their money's worth, for the score was Boston, 5; Hawks, 0. If they went to see the Hawks win a home victory for the first time since Nov. 13, they must have had faces as red as the seats they paid to use.

The Hawks, as a result of a rather pathetic performance, toppled from a first place tie to a tie for third place, the Bruins and New York Rangers passing them in the National league standings.

First Goal a Lucky One.

The teams played to a scoreless tie until 9:34 of the second period, due in so far as the Hawks were concerned to the virtually solo excellence of Mike Karakas' goal tending. But Mike couldn't represent the world champions' interest by himself indefinitly. He was nicked for a lucky goal by Milt Schmidt halfway through the second period soon after Earl Seibert had drawn the only Hawk penalty of the night.

Seibert was put off for holding and the assessment brought almost instantaneous dire results. As soon as Earl had been locked behind the little red door there was a faceoff at Karakas' right. MacKenzie got the puck and sought to golf it the length of the rink. But the rubber hit a player and bounced right in front of the cage. Quick as a flash Schmidt whanged it home.

After that, the Deluge.

The real shower came in the final period when the Bruins scored four goals. In 4:38 Dit Clapper registered on an assist from Bill Cowley. This one was a matter of pure passing and shooting skill. Cowley circled gracefully around the Hawk defense and passed accurately to Clapper, who blinded Karakas with a lightning, hard shot.

The Bruins could have been satisfied with a 2 to 0 count, but at the start of the last five minutes Manager Art Ross gave his lads the sign to give the champs a hocky lesson. The Bruins responded by making three goals in fifty-eight seconds. Charley Sands scored on assists from Cowley and Ray Getliffe in 15:53; Schmidt scored his second goal, on an assist from Bobby Bauer in 16:01, and in 16:51 Clapper scored again, this time on assists by Schmidt and Bauer.

Hawks Lose Poise, Prestige.

The Hawks not only lost their poise and prestige during the course of the debacle but they had to play during the entire scoring span without the services of their star forward and coach, Paul Thompson. While his team was falling apart Paul was in the sick bay taking treatments for a right leg muscle, pulled early in the second period.

No announcement was made as to what the Hawk management expects to do to retain the record clientele which has been watching aimless performances for too many evenings recently.

You Can't Keep a Fellow Like Murczek Out of the Ring!

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

On the night of March 9, 1934, a bunch of boys from Bridgeport traveled down to the Chicago Stadium to see the finals of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament for that year. One of them was Stanley Murczek, a hardy Polish lad who had done his share of battling in accordance with all of the old Bridgeport customs, but never in a ring.

Stan was curious to see what these boys who wore lether gloves for their duels, and ceased firing at the sound of a bell had that the kids out in Bridgeport didn't have. He sat through the program and watched such famed Golden Glovers as Jesse Levels, Troy Bellini, Al Nettlow, and Bill Treest win their championships. He saw the light heavyweight crown go to a young colcred kid from Detroit named Joe Louis. Stan had to admit they all were plenty good.

Marek Becomes His Idol.

Came the heavyweight bout, matching Max Marek and Otis Thomas. That battle has since gone down in history as the greatest windup bout in Golden Gloves annals. From start to finish, it was a toe-to-toe punching storm. It had the fans near hysteria, and the most frantic of them all was young Murczek, who was one of those cheering loudest for Marek, even after Max had lost the decision to Thomas. From that night on, Marek became a Murczek idol.

Stan became such a follower of the Marek career that he finally decided to take up boxing, and chose the Catholic Youth organization as his starting point. So faithful has he been to the Marek ideals that on Friday night Murczek will be one of the finalists in the 147 pound open class in the eighth annual C. Y. O. championship tournament in the International Amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets.

He's a Hard Worker.

Murczek, according to C. Y. O. officials, is one of the hardest working fighters they ever have seen. He tolls from six to eight rounds a day on an average of four days a week in the loop center of the organization. Defeat over a period of three straight years apparently has not daunted him in his quest of a title. In his tournament debut, Stan ran into Chester Rutecki, one of the hardest punchers in the business, and lost a south side quarter final bout to him. The following year, he lost another quarter-final bout to John Lewandowski, whom he has since beaten twice in semi-finals. Last year he reached the championship bout in the welterweight division, but there encountered Tony Motisi, who proved a shade too much for him.

So it is that the diligent Murczek comes back to the finals once again. His opponent Friday night will be the clever Joe O'Connell, who has graduated to the 147 pound league after having won the lightweight title last year. Joe will have to be at his best, according to Murczek fans, for they rate Stan one of the punchingest fighters in the finals.

He'll Keep Coming Back.

Even though Stan doesn't win Friday, he intends to keep coming back until he does. He stresses the fact that regardless of what he does, remains amateur or turns pro, he always will stay with the C. Y. O. The son of a shoemaker, Stan is 21 and lives at 2810 South Bonfield street. He will represent St. Barbara's parish.

Cubs and Sox Officials Go South with Wallets Ready

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

When the baseball folks begin to gather tomorrow in New Orleans for the preliminaries of the annual minor leagues' convention, Chicago representatives will be holding their share of lobby space.

The local delegations—White Sox and Cubs' officials—will depart today and upon arrival tomorrow morning will open trading booths behind lobby posts at which all other managers or club owners with swapping ideas will be welcome.

The Sox party will be made up of President J. Louis Comiskey, Vice President Harry Grabiner, Secretary Joe Barry and Coach Billy Webb. Manager Jim Dykes will go direct from his Philadelphia home. Manager Gabby Hartnett, Vice President Boots Weber and Secretary Bob Lewis will carry the Cub banner out of Chicago and will be augmented by Scouts Clarence Rowland and Jack Doyle in New Orleans.

Other Clubs Are Silent.

Hartnett, who after the flop of his team in the world series declared he'd trade anybody with the exception of four or five men, is already fearing that his published desire to do business in the baseball market fell on deaf, or even suspicious, ears.

So far as is known, the rival clubs with which the Cubs hoped to dicker have been slow in their responses, possibly an indication they have no intention of surrendering what the Cubs want in exchange for players who, despite the pennant achievement, compiled second rate individual averages during the season.

If the Cubs do make any headway in the swapping competition it probably will start with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Rowland, the Cubs' trade emissary, has already had talks with Bill Benswanger, the Pirate president, and Pie Traynor, the manager, but the latter refused to hurry. They agreed it would be best to hold off until the New Orleans affair, thus giving other propositions a chance to materialize.

They'll Miss Monty.

Dykes' trading plans, on which he had been working since last August, were terribly jolted when Monty Stratton, his ace, lost his right leg in a hunting accident. With Stratton, John Rigney, Bill Dietrich, Clint Brown, Thornton Lee, Jack Knott and Vic Frasier as possibilities for next season's pitching chores, Dykes had figured he could afford to use John Whitehead as bait to attract a worth while athlete for some other position. But with Stratton's career suddenly ended, Dykes may be forced to retain his problem boy.

So many teams in the league are suffering from a pitching shortage that they undoubtedly would come through with something handsome to capture Whitehead, who, despite his fondness for sleep and victuals, can pitch with the best of them when in the mood.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 4.—Philadelphia's Eagles had everything Detroit's Lions lacked and so today they erased Detroit from the Western division professional football championship race by a 21 to 7 score. When the Eagles wanted touchdowns, touchdowns came. When it was necessary to check the Lions, check the Lions they did. The Eagles were in command almost from the start and save for let-downs in the second and fourth periods, they might have made the margin greater. A crowd of 18,985 attended.

Eagles Score on Lateral.

Today's game virtually was over in the first period so far as Detroit's chance was concerned. Three minutes after the kickoff the Eagles scored on a forward lateral pass involving Dave Smukler, Bill Hewitt, and Joe Carter. Smukler passed to Hewitt, who threw to Carter as Vernon Huffman was set for a tackle. Carter then ran into the end zone untouched. The play covered sixty-two yards.

Just before the period ended Carter ran to the Lion 7 yard line after picking up Dick Nardi's fumble on the Eagle 40. On second down, Smukler passed to Jay Arnold for the second Philadelphia touchdown.

Elwood Dow helped the Eagles score their third touchdown in the third quarter. He intercepted a pass intended for Raymond Morse, Detroit right end, and ran to Detroit's 25. On first down, Smukler connected with Hewitt in the end zone.

Detroit Scores, at Last.

Detroit scored in the fourth period when the Eagles, leading, 21 to 0, were taking things easy. Dutch Clark's passes to Kent Ryan and the driving of Ace Gutowsky carried the Lions to the Philadelphia 2. Then Gutowsky plunged for the score. Clark added the extra point, his 305th since entering the National league in 1930.

Emmett Mortell with two and Smukler with one, kicked the Eagles' extra points. Mortell's punting constantly placed Detroit in unpleasant situations. Hewitt, another star, never was better as he carried the Eagles along on his play and sophomoric enthusiasm.

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 4. — [Special.]—The Jersey City Giants, champions of the American Professional Football association, defeated the Paterson Panthers, 17 to 7, in Roosevelt stadium today. JUDGE HOYT IS RE-ELECTED BY A. A. U.; NEW AIDS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Judge Samuel E. Hoyt of New Haven, Conn., a compromise candidate for president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States a year ago, was rewarded today for a year of faithful service by unanimous re-election.

Serving with the Connecticut prosecutor will be four new vice presidents: Louis di Benedetto of New Orleans, Charles Gevecker of St. Louis, William Cunningham of Cincinnati, O., and Roscoe Torrance of Seattle, Wash.

They replaced James J. Richardson of Portland, Ore.; Col. Frank R. Lowe of Portland, Me.; Owen V. Van Camp of Chicago, and Ward Haylett of Manhattan, Kas.

It's Miami Next Year.

The A. A. U.'s only salaried national officers, J. Lyman Bingham of Chicago, assistant to the president, and Daniel J. Ferris of New York, secretary-treasurer, have two more years to go on their four year terms.

Concluding the three day golden jubilee convention, delegates from the thirty-nine sectional associations in the United States and Hawaii selected Miami, Fla., for the 1939 meeting. Miami polled 149¾ votes to 114¼ for New Orleans and 51 for Portland, Ore.

The minority report of the legislation committee, which revived the proposal to substitute the line system of measurement for the metric system in national championship events was defeated overwhelmingly.

Softball Leagues Object.

The A. A. U. also decided to take steps to eliminate professionalism from softball. Numerous members of the Amateur Softball association, an A. A. U. affiliate, notably the Phoenix, Ariz., league, submitted complaints. Among them was one that Heavyweight Boxing Champion Joe Louis had played with an amateur softball team.

M. J. Pauley, secretary of the association, appeared before the delegates today and admitted there had been violations of the amateur code, but added that the association would coöperate fully in whatever measures the A. A. U. should decide were necessary to remedy the situation.

Notre Dame Has No Alibis; Trojans Were Better Team

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 4.—A Notre Dame quarter back is always right.

That was the attitude Coach Elmer Layden and every member of the squad assumed after yesterday's 13 to 0 defeat by Southern California.

The Trojans' first touchdown, which changed the entire character of the ball game, occurred five seconds before the end of the half after Steve Sitko, Notre Dame's field general, called a running play on fourth down with twenty-three yards to go and 35 seconds remaining on the clock.

Sitko Was the Boss.

This department knows Layden well enough to realize he would have preferred Sitko to play it safe and kick. But nobody could get him to admit it today. Sitko was running the team and no one at Notre Dame ever second guesses the quarter back.

"Sitko wanted to keep the ball away from those speedy Southern California backs as long as possible," Layden said today.

"If the play had gone right, he would have been complimented for his head work."

The ball went to Bob Saggau, who picked up seven yards before he stepped out of bounds. The clock stopped the moment he hit the sidelines, which was the big factor in the subsequent developments. If he had cut back toward the center of the field instead of running out of bounds, it is likely the half would have ended before the Trojans could have started a play. There would have been time for only one, at any rate.

Saggau is only a sophomore. Sitko is a junior. Both have contributed heavily to Notre Dame's brilliant 1938 record. If they were responsible for the touchdown that beat their team yesterday, it will be forgotten amid their many heroic achievements. You'll look the country over to find a better all around pair of backs on anybody's eleven.

It is doubtful if Notre Dame could have beaten Southern California under any circumstances. Yesterday was the Trojans' day. They did everything superbly. They had weight and speed and drive and spirit that were too much for a team that had traveled the rough route Notre Dame has toured since early October.

They Had Been Slipping.

The Irish hit their peak in midseason against Army, Navy and Minnesota. Their offense has been slipping steadily from the day they whipped the Big Ten champion, 19 to 0. They had a couple of offensive spasms against Northwestern and Southern California, but there was no continuity to their attack. Minnesota, Northwestern, Michigan, Purdue, Wisconsin and most of the other good teams of the season had similar experiences. One Saturday they were up, the next they were down. All of which is healthy for the game.

The Notre Dame players and coaches had dinner today, as has been their custom for years, at the ranch home of Mrs. Edward L. Doheny. They left for San Francisco tonight and they will spend tomorrow on a sightseeing tour of the bay district, including a visit to Treasure Island, site of the 1939 San Francisco fair. They will leave for South Bend tomorrow night.

GUY HECKER, 82, OLD TIME PIRATE MANAGER, DIES

Wooster, O., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Funeral services for Guy Jackson Hecker, 82, formerly prominent in baseball, will be held here Tuesday. He managed the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1890.

He scored seven runs for Louisville on Aug. 15, 1886, a record that still stands. He hit three home runs that day. As Louisville hurler he pitched a no-hit game against Pittsburgh Sept. 19, 1882.

Hecker was born at Youngsville, Pa., April 3, 1856. He was awarded a lifetime major league pass a few years ago.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 4.—Washington's two year supremacy in the eastern division of the National Football league, was shattered today by a New York Giant eleven that needed little more than its alertness to score a one sided triumph. The Redskins fell to pieces, literally and figuratively, and as dusk settled on the Polo grounds and as the Giant fans were battling police to get at the goal posts, dim lights from the Washington club house illuminated the score board, outlining the final figures: "New York, 36; Washington, 0."

Ten thousand Washington fans, who stormed into New York this morning, paraded down Broadway behind their eighty-seven piece band, took over downtown hotels and descended on the Polo grounds with the cries of marauding braves, sat quietly under sunny skies while their team fumbled and threw away victory. All but six of the Giants' points were traceable to Redskin fumbles or intercepted passes.

Soar Leads the Way.

Half Back Hank Soar brought the crowd of 57,461 to its feet screaming on the ninth play of the game when he sent the Giants off to a lead with a forty-three yard run off tackle for a touchdown. An intercepted pass had set up the score.

A few minutes later a fumble in the Washington back field gave the Giants another opening and in six plays they made the score 14 to 0 on Bull Karcis' half yard plunge and Cuff's placement.

Although they played with the indifference of a beaten club, the Redskins managed to prevent further scoring in the first half, and there still was hope in the Washington rooting section that they would rally to win and qualify for the championship playoff. But only the Redskins spirit improved with the start of the second half. Their play remained ragged, enabling the Giants to coast in to the playoff against Green Bay here next Saturday, where the eastern and western division title holders will meet for the league championship and the right to meet the College All-Stars in THE TRIBUNE'S sixth annual charity game next fall.

Filchock Fumbles One.

Announcement of the third period score at Detroit, where Philadelphia whipped the Lions to elevate the Packers to the championship, was made simultaneously with Frank Filchock's fumble on the first play of the second half. The crowd let out a tremendous roar. Orville Tuttle, Giant guard, recovered the fumble on the 29 yard line, and on fourth down Cuff, who contributed twelve points to the Giants' total, place kicked from the 36 yard line to make the score 17 to 0.

It became 24 to 0 on Cuff's ninety yard return of an intercepted pass. Tuffy Leemans passed twenty-three yards to End Chuck Gelatka, a rookie from Mississippi State, for the fourth Giant touchdown early in the fourth period and shortly thereafter Gelatka intercepted a pass by Filchock, to return eight yards for another six points.

Although spectacular throughout, the game was not impressive as a demonstration of major league football. An all night rain had left the gridiron heavy, particularly along the south sideline in the shade of the grandstand. Only one offensive drive was made in the entire sixty minutes and, ironically enough, it was made by Washington and ended up in a Giant score. Putting five first downs together in an advance of eighty yards, the Redskins reached the 10

NATIONAL RULES TO PREVAIL FOR BIG 10 QUINTETS

Two Minutes Allotted for Time Outs.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Basketball coaches and officials of the Western conference and other coaches from mid-western universities and colleges in their meeting yesterday morning in the Sherman hotel discussed changes in the basketball rules for the campaign now under way and then concluded with an interpretation of the code particularly for Big Ten games. Only Western conference coaches and officials attended this concluding session.

The Western conference, it was apparent from yesterday's decisions, will concur in the rules drawn up by the National Collegiate Athletic association more completely than in any recent season. The basketball code is edited by Oswald Tower for the United States and Canada and the committee is composed of representatives from the National Collegiate Athletic Association, National Federation of State High School Athletic associations, Young Men's Christian association, Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic union, and the Canadian Amateur Basketball association.

Two Minutes for Each Time Out

Principle deviation from the code for the Big Ten is the decision to continue the practice of permitting two minutes for each time out. The code allots one minute. The rules this year extend the number of time-outs without penalty to five for each team. In view of this increase the Big Ten will count a time out when substitutions are made if play is not resumed within thirty seconds.

The coaches and officials also discussed the rule which this year prevents a scorer from calling for time out after a goal or free throw is made. Time out for information must be called from the floor rather than from the scorers' table. They also discussed the change in territory to which the "three second rule" applies, the position of jump balls in relation to boundary lines, and technical interpretation of the advance of the ball across the center line and into the forward half of the court.

Rule on Substitution.

The coaches agreed also that when a field goal has been made and a foul called immediately after that goal, that substitution will be permitted before the free throw is attempted and that the substitution will not count as a time out.

On held balls near the boundary lines the players will jump for possession at a point six feet from side or end lines, or both. The attacking quintet still has ten seconds to advance the ball into the forward half of the court but the center line marking the division of territory now is considered to be in the back court.

The player with the ball, if he touches the line, still is considered to be in the back court and he may pass back to a teammate without penalty. The ten second count continues, of course. Formerly when the player, under these circumstances, touched the line, then stepped back or passed back, the interpretation was that the ball had been brought back from the front court and since it had not been touched by an opponent, possession was forfeited to the defense.

Clears Up Delicate Point.

The change in this rule clears up a technicality which often was accidental and sometimes had important bearing on the result of a closely played game.

This year the rule makers have increased the space in which the so-called pivot play may be used—an effort to help the offense break up massed defenses—and the three second rule, while still applying to the man in the free throw lane in possession of the ball, does not apply to a player without the ball if he is standing in front of the free throw line in that half of the free throw lane circle farthest from the goal. A one inch line parallel to the end line bisecting the free throw circle divides the territory for application of this rule.

Still Possible to Stall.

While the compulsory advance by the offense into the forward half of the court in ten seconds originally was designed to prevent back court stalling, it still is possible to stall, particularly when the defense is massed. There is no rule to prevent the defense from massing under the goal nor to force the attack to attempt to score.

From this situation there still arises the unsatisfactory spectacle of the stall by the offense. No rules have been devised to alter the possibilities. Briefly yesterday the coaches considered this problem, as have the rule makers, but except for a generalization that all coaches should consider the fans who support the sport and expect to see a basketball game rather than a contest of "keep away," there was no comment.

Rollie Williams Absent.

Rollie Williams, Iowa basketball coach who was unable to attend yesterday's meeting, was represented by Pops Harrison. In addition to Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the conference, the following coaches of the Big Ten were present: Nels Norgren, Chicago; Benny Oosterbaan, Michigan; Branch McCracken, Indiana; Dutch Lonborg, Northwestern; H. G. Olson, Ohio State; Doug Mills, Illinois; Ward Lambert, Purdue; Dave MacMillan, Minnesota, and Bud Foster, Wisconsin.

Father of Joe Louis Is Buried in Alabama

Lafayette, Ala., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Hundreds of colored people and a small group of white men and women attended the funeral today of Monroe Barrow, father of Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world. The heavyweight champion, seventh child of Barrow, who died last week in a state hospital, was not present, but another son and two daughters came here from Detroit.

Brewers Rout Vikings; Sparta Triumphs, 8 to 2

BY OFFSIDE.

The Manhattan Brewers and the Spartas prepared for their National cup matches next Sunday with easy victories yesterday. The Brewers routed the previously unbeaten Vikings, 7 to 0, and Sparta whipped the Norwegian-Americans, 8 to 2.

The Brewers led the Vikings, 3 to 0, at the half on two goals by Garci and one by Neilson. The Vikings, who missed several scoring opportunities in the first half, fell further behind in the second half as Nielson scored 20 minutes through the period. Begley, Roggels, and Nielson then drove in goals to complete the rout.

Sparta, the national champion, never was pressed in its game with the Norwegians. MacDermott led the attack with four goals, three of which came in the first half as Sparta rolled up a 5 to 1 advantage. Iverson in the first period and Malmin in the second scored the Norwegians' goals, but after the latter had cut Sparta's lead to 5 to 2, Wolf, MacDermott, and Fraser scored for the champions to accomplish the final total.

In other soccer games yesterday, the Sparta Seconds tied Wisla, 3 to 3; Olympia triumphed over German-Americans, 4 to 2, and Hakoah whipped the Viking Reserves, 3 to 1. Sparta and Manhattan lineups:

Overend said he was going to Bay St. Louis, Miss., tomorrow to look over the Mississippi gulf coast area as a possible stopover, and also was considering the Holy Cross college grounds here.

ARMSTRONG, WHO NEVER RESTS, TO BATTLE TONIGHT

Risks 147 Pound Title Against Manfredo.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong, the double boxing champion, wound up training today in preparation for his title fight tomorrow night with Al Manfredo of San Francisco.

Armstrong will risk the heavier of his two crowns, the welterweight, in the fifteen round battle with the Californian. Lou Ambers, who dropped the lightweight title to Henry, will be on the same card, meeting Frankie Wallace of Cleveland in a ten rounder.

He's a Busy Boy.

It will be Armstrong's second title defense in two weeks, Ceferino Garcia having lost by a decision to the champion in New York late last month. The colored star still carries a few outward signs of the gruelling battle with Garcia, but said he was in excellent physical condition.

He indicated today he is not taking Manfredo lightly, declaring he believed his foe tomorrow was a better boxer than Garcia. Manfredo has been working out here several days and pronounced himself in top shape.

Krieger Meets Barth.

The card also includes a ten round nontitle bout between Solly Krieger of Brooklyn, recognized as world middleweight champion by the national boxing commission, and Carmen Barth of Cleveland, and a ten rounder pairing Petey Sarron of Birmingham, Ala., former featherweight champion, and Mike Gamiere of Cleveland.

Two four rounders will open the show.

THREE OKLAHOMA MEN HURT; WON'T FACE TENNESSEE

Norman, Okla., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Oklahoma's powerful Sooners came to the end of a perfect football season today but the injuries of three regulars in the last two victories will send them against mighty Tennessee in the Orange bowl in a crippled condition. When the Big Six champons, who boast of ten consecutive victories this year, line up against the volunteers in Miami, Fla., Jan. 2, two of their most elusive back field runners and a regular guard will be on the sidelines with injuries.

For their smashing 28 to 0 victory over Washington State in the season's finale yesterday, the Sooners paid Bill Jennings, sophomore right half back, who suffered a broken ankle, and Jerry Bolton, junior guard, whose knee was badly wrenched.

Last week, while the Sooners were walloping the Oklahoma Aggies, 19 to 0, Howard McCarty, half back, went down with a broken leg.

Coach Tom Stidham, fearful his boys would go stale before the Orange bowl game, gave them a two weeks' vacation starting today.

IKEY KAREL, 65, STAR OF 1894 BADGERS, DIES

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 4.—(AP)—County Judge John Colonel [Ikey] Karel, 65, one of early day football's best known players, died today after a short illness.

Ikey was one of the great half backs of the nineties and his forty yard touchdown run gave Wisconsin its first victory over Minnesota in 1894. Two years later he led Wisconsin to another victory over the Gophers. He weighed only 156 pounds.

Judge Karel was born in Schuyler, Neb. His father was consul in Prague and St. Petersburg under President Grover Cleveland. Ikey was a reporter, lake steamer purser, and Chicago bank clerk before he became an attorney. He served two sessions in the state assembly.

Marquart and Pershing Head Marigold Card

Billy Marquart, lightweight star of Winnipeg, Man., and Hank Pershing, rugged appearing fighter from Cleveland, O., will be the main event boys in an eight round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Marquart will be after his twenty-fifth victory in twenty-eight appearances during his two year professional campaign.

The assignment against Marquart is the most ambitious ever undertaken by Pershing. Marquart defeated Young Armando Santiago in Marigold Oct. 17.

In the secondary feature, also set for eight rounds, Bob Tinsley, local junior welterweight, will be in quest of his sixth consecutive triumph against Tommy Howell, the lad from Danville.

Dick Kist, welterweight, who also calls Danville his home town, is down for a five round scrap with Steve Padon. Kist, who was given a draw with Verne Patterson Nov. 14, will seek to keep his record clear of defeats.

Contests of four rounds bring together Eddie Lander and Patrick O'Brien, and George Nyberg and Lorenzo Robinson.

Wrestling shows are scheduled this evening in Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue, and White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. King Levinsky and Pat Murphy are the Cicero headliners. GIANTS BATTER REDSKINS, 36-0; END TITLE HOPES yard line midway in the third period. But on fourth down Filchock fired the pass which Cuff carried back ninety yards along the north sideline for a touchdown.

Giants Play Waiting Game.

New York, utilizing its five man line to throttle the Redskins' passing attack, made little effort to run the ball or organize a drive. After Soar's run, which, like the other long sprints of the day, was made down the north sideline, where the footing was good, it played a defensive game, capitalizing on the alertness of its secondary and the charge of the linemen. Washington passers were harassed at every turn. Sammy Baugh and Bill Hartman, in particular, found it difficult to escape Giant forwards while attempting passes.

The Giants' comfortable lead almost from the start accounts for Washington's seeming superiority in the statistics, where the Giants were bested in all important tabulations except yards from rushing.

The statistics:

	N. Y.	Wash.
First downs	5	13
Yards net rushing	109	68
Yards forward passes	51	139
Total yards gained	160	207
Passes attempted	10	34
Passes completed	4	15
Passes intercepted by	6	....
Punts	....	6
Average distance	31	34
Yards run back	46	3
Fumbles	1	7
Opponents fumbles recovered	4	1
Yards penalized	70	40

Filchock was the most successful passer and the Redskins' leading ground gainer, completing six of his thirteen passes. But New York's defense was so well planned that Washington's best receivers appeared to be blue shirted Giants. Baugh threw twelve passes, completing only four, and had three intercepted.

Wings Defeat Leafs, 1 to 0; Leave Cellar

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings pulled out of last place in the National Hocky league tonight by defeating the Toronto Maple Leafs, 1 to 0, in a savagely fought contest.

A crowd of 11,855 saw Modere Bruneteau score the only goal of the contest 5 minutes and 27 seconds before the final gong. Bruneteau raced in and took a rebound of a shot by Marty Barry off Goalie Walter Broda's pads and flicked the puck into the corner. Syd Howe and Barry got assists on the play.

It was Detroit's first shutout victory of the season and its second straight triumph since Tiny Thompson was purchased from Boston to guard the Red Wings' net.

DUKE TO RESUME DRILL TODAY FOR ROSE BOWL GAME

Durham, N. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Duke's untied, unbeaten, and unscored-on Blue Devils will return to the practice field tomorrow to start preparations for their Rose Bowl game with Southern California's Trojans.

Coach Wallace Wade has not outlined a program, but there likely will be light sessions the first few days in the week. Duke broke training after its victory over Pitt on Nov. 26.

Scouts Eddie Cameron and Carl Voyles, who watched Southern California pound out a 13 to 0 victory over Notre Dame yesterday, are due back in Durham on Tuesday and the Duke coach will start laying definite plans then. With the exception of Jap Davis, a blocking back, the Blue Devils are in top shape. Davis still is bothered by a shoulder injury he suffered in the N. C. State game.

Wood's Putter Brings Victory in Augusta Golf

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Craig Wood, veteran professional from Mamaroneck, N. Y., came from behind today to capture the $5,000 Augusta open golf tournament with a 72 hole total of 278, six strokes under par.

While Leo Walper, Washington, D. C., pro, who led at 36 holes, and Sam Snead, the pre-tournament favorite, fought it out before the bulk of the gallery, Wood played in comparative solitude while turning out a 69 in the morning and a record equaling 67 on the last 18 holes.

Walper Finishes Third.

He slipped in a stroke below Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., while Walper came back strongly after a poor start and salvaged third place at 281, a stroke ahead of Snead, top money winner among the pros.

Wood benefited by excellent putting through his final rounds, but it was his sand wedge that gave him victory in spectacular fashion on the final hole, where he needed a par four to finish in front. Playing in the near dark and with all the other leaders in, Wood landed his second in a trap 40 feet from the pin and in a bad lie close to the bank. He put it all into a single, sand showering blast and the ball plopped down by the cup, popped in and out, and stopped an inch away for a tapin that sewed up top money of $1,200.

Here's Putting Magic!

Wood used only 32 putts in his morning round and in the afternoon had eight one putt greens, using in all only 28 strokes on the greens. He dropped one 40 footer, one from 30 feet, and an assortment of 10 foot and 8 foot efforts.

Picard's rally for second place brought him $750 and while Walper missed out on his first top money, his third was good for $550.

Although putting trouble dropped Snead into a fourth place tie with John Bulla of Chicago, he took down $400 and boosted his 1938 winnings to a new all time high of $19,039.49.

Dunkelberger Low Amateur.

Twelve other pros who scored 287 or better split the rest of the prize money, while Bobby Dunkelberger of Greensboro, N. C., carried off the biggest piece of amateur silverware with a final total of 289, three strokes better than Frank Mulherin's 292.

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY
HERE'S A SPECIAL SHAVE CREAM
It's Not a SOAP... Not Greasy
Needs No Brush ... No Irritating Alkalies ... Leaves Your Skin Soft and Smooth

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. This is especially true of the man who, because of his business and social status, must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed a special cream for daily shavers. It's called Glider. After washing face thoroughly with soap and warm water to remove razor-dulling grit, you spread on Glider quickly and easily with your fingers. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich, smooth cream. It softens each whisker right down to the skin, yet forms a protective layer over your face to keep blade from scraping. Swiftly and gently your razor glides over your skin without tearing or irritating. Like a cold cream, Glider smooths and softens your skin. It actually relieves soreness and helps prevent chapping and roughness. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

Try Glider at our Expense:
Send your name and address on a penny post card, for a generous FREE tube of Glider "No-Brush" Cream. The J. B. Williams Co., Dept. CT-15, Glastonbury, Conn.

Dinghy Skippers Race in First Novelty Series

Six races were sailed in Belmont harbor yesterday by skippers and crews of the Chicago chapter of the North American Dinghy association in the first annual novelty series. Lockwood Pirie won the first race, which started from inside the Chicago Yacht clubhouse, where rope, sail, and spars for the eight dinghies competing were piled. Yachtsmen and yachtswomen picked out their own gear, rigged their craft, launched them, and sailed around the course.

The bang and go back race was won by Ed Schnabel Sr. A relay race around the harbor was won by the team of boats skippered by David Chapman, Rusell Moson, Tempel Smith, and Harry Nye Jr.

In another race, designed for incorrect sailing, Tempel Smith was the winner.

Mrs. Allen S. Pearl Jr. won a special trophy for having nearly capsized three times during the races. Lockwood Pirie won a conventional leeward and windward race, and Leeds Mitchell Jr. won a regular race around a triangular course.

Douglas Palm was the leading skipper in the Jackson Park Yacht club's series of ten races for dinghies held yesterday in the outer harbor. Morton Henry of the club's junior squadron was his crew.

Sportsmen Get Invitation to State Meeting

BY BOB BECKER.

An invitation to Illinois sportsmen to attend a public hearing of the Illinois state legislative council on Wednesday in the state senate council chamber has been extended by the conservation department.

"At this meeting," Director of Conservation Thomas J. Lynch explains, "Illinois sportsmen will be given an opportunity to make recommendations for changes in the present game and fish codes, preparatory to the sessions of the legislature which will convene Jan. 3, 1939.

All persons interested in possible changes in the code which will improve game and fish conditions in the state are invited to attend and be prepared to submit legislative suggestions. The hearing will start at 1 p. m.

Opportunity for Action.

This meeting offers another opportunity to conservation and sportsmen groups in the state to get together on what they want and present to the council a clear cut, uniform outline of what Illinois ought to do to keep pace with other states in an outdoor program of good fishing, better hunting, increased facilities for camping, and such needed improvements.

For several years some of the organized groups of outdoor fans have been trying to get for Illinois a commission form of conservation department . . . the kind that most of our states now have. So far little progress has been made, with the result that Illinois still is going along [in the opinion of conservationists who know conditions in other states] in low speed as far as a broad program for all outdoor fans is concerned.

Some Code Clauses Listed.

It won't take Illinois sportsmen very long to jot down on paper some of the things that their state should and could do in the way of conservation and a revised, up to date game code. Included in the list would be the following:

1. A nonpartisan, nonpolitical commission form of conservation department, members serving without pay.

2. Increased fish hatching and restocking facilities. [Illinois plants about 12,000,000 game fish in inland lakes per year. Minnesota and Wisconsin plant 1,000,000,000 fish per year!]

3. Training school for wardens and encouragement to these men to make conservation work a long time job rather than something temporary, depending on politics.

4. A change in the regulations making it impossible for hunters to carry guns in their automobiles unless they are taken down or in gun cases. [This is to reduce potshooting from automobiles. . . . a regulation found effective in Wisconsin.]

RAMS TRIUMPH OVER PIRATES, 13 TO 7, IN SOUTH

White's Run, Pass Scores Pittsburgh Touchdown.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Byron [Whizzer] White wound up his first season of professional football today as the Cleveland Rams whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 13 to 7.

White, the Pirates' star left half back, was bottled up until the last two plays of the afternoon, but then raced forty-six yards to set up Pittsburgh's touchdown. The points were scored on the last play on a pass from White to End Wilbur Sortet. Niccolai kicked the extra point.

Nearly 7,500 fans saw the game, a National Professional league contest originally scheduled for Oct. 16 in Pittsburgh.

Jim Benton and Bob Snyder teamed to supply the Rams' 13 points. A pass in the first period from Snyder to Benton was good for forty-eight yards, the latter running thirty yards for a touchdown. Snyder kicked the extra point.

Jack Robinson, 218 pound tackle, broke through to block White's punt on fourth down in the third period, and recovered the ball on the Pirates' eleven yard line. John Drake smashed for five yards and Snyder then whipped a pass to Benton in the end zone. Lineups:

F. H. CLARIDGE, BANK FAILURE 'HERO,' BURIED

Blair, Neb., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Funeral services were held today for Frederick H. Claridge, 78 years old, a resident here for a half century and a "hero" in the failure of his bank eighteen years ago. He died Friday.

Claridge disappeared, his bank closed, and charges were filed against him. He returned voluntarily seven months later and was given an ovation, farmers and town's people rushing to the courthouse to sign his $10,000 bond.

Claridge had turned over his entire personal fortune of $100,000 to the bank before disappearing to work in New York City as a janitor and clerk in a publishing house, stamping envelopes. Two years later the complaint against Claridge was ruled defective and his case thrown out of court. Cost of the bank failure was estimated at $600,000 to holders of bank securities, not depositors.

CALL 60 AUTO, GLASS MEN IN MONOPOLY QUIZ

Edsel Ford, Others to Tell of Patents.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Sixty executives in automobile and glass manufacturing have been summoned to tell the national economic committee about the use of patents in their industries.

This was disclosed today when the justice department made public a list of prospective witnesses headed by Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company and son of its founder. Ford is to testify tomorrow.

The department said thirteen in the automobile industry and forty-seven in glass manufacturing had been subpenaed or advised by letter that they could expect a subpena.

Knudsen May Appear.

Among others who may appear for the automobile industry are K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler corporation; William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors corporation; Charles F. Kettering, General Motors vice president; Robert C. Graham, executive vice president of Graham-Paige Motors corporation, and Alvan Macauley, president of the Packard Motor company.

Among the representatives of the glass industry who have been asked to testify are Frank C. Ball, president, and George A. Ball, vice president of Ball Brothers, Muncie, Ind.; Alexander D. Falck, chairman, and Amory Houghton, president of the Corning Glass works, Elmira, N. Y., and William E. Levis, president of Owens-Illinois Glass company, Toledo, O.

Seek Light on Prices.

The justice department, which has charge of the patents study for the committee, said that one of the main questions to be explored was whether the existing patent system served the purpose of patents set out in the constitution "to promote the progress of science and the useful arts."

The committee also wants to find out, the department said, what has been the effect of patents on prices, profits, and production; whether they have fostered rigid prices and whether they have helped to get more goods to consumers.

Persons close to the committee said information favorable to the auto industry's system of patent agreements probably would be uncovered.

At the same time holders of $941,613,750 of 1½ per cent treasury notes will be offered the privilege of exchanging these maturing notes for additional amounts of either the treasury bonds or the notes offered for cash subscriptions.

If these holders do not elect such an exchange they may exchange their notes for a new series of nine year 2 per cent treasury bonds of 1947.

In any case the exchange will be made at $100 per $100 unit, wtih an adjustment of accrued interest as of Dec. 15, 1938.

Everyday Economics

Coins—3.

Although coinage has been heavy in recent years, no silver dollars have been minted since 1935. In that year 3,540,000 were produced. To easterners a silver dollar today is a rare sight, but the west still clings to its frontier tradition. Like gold coin, the silver dollar was a symbol to the old westerner of the wealth of his country in precious metals.

Federal mints keep on hand a supply of silver dollars large enough to meet present demands. Practically all the treasury's gold coin, however, has either been melted into bar gold or is on the way to the melting pot. Only a few are held for historical purposes. For all practical purposes gold coins have passed from their former position to become museum pieces.

Coins are produced at the government mints. Silver coins are made from pure silver alloyed with copper at the ratio of 100 parts copper to 900 parts silver bullion. Nickel coins are manufactured from an alloy of 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel, and bronze coins from an alloy of 95 per cent copper and 5 per cent tin and zinc.

In the manufacture of coins care must be given to weight. With the exception of dimes, all silver coins are separately weighed. If the test shows one to be above or below legal weight it is rejected and remelted. Frequent tests are made to verify the weights of dimes, nickels, and pennies. All the minor coins are weighed in drafts of $1,000.

Gold & Stock Telegraph.

Investors' Guide: Is the Gold and Stock Telegraph 6 per cent stock, guaranteed by the Western Union company, their prior obligation and does it come ahead of their bonds and stock? What do you think of it as an investment?—H. E. W.

Answer: The Gold and Stock Telegraph company owns a market ticker and quotation service which is leased by the Western Union company until 1981. As rental Western Union guarantees annual dividends of 6 per cent on the capital stock. Western Union owns 29,476 shares, or 59 per cent, of the 50,000 shares of $100 par capital stock outstanding. Rental dividends have been paid regularly each quarter by Western Union.

The stock ranks ahead of capital stock of the Western Union company, but is subject to that company's funded debt of about $91,000,000. Gold and Stock Telegraph shares regarded as somewhat speculative.

STEEL OUTPUT AT PITTSBURGH, CHICAGO LOWER

National Rate Sags to 61 Per Cent.

Lowered steel production rates in Chicago and Pittsburgh last week accounted for a decline of 1 point to 61 per cent of capacity in the national steel making rate, the magazine Steel said yesterday. Aside from declines of 2 and 3 points respectively at these two principal production centers, gains more than offset declines among the other districts.

"Steel consumption is well sustained," the trade journal said. "Automobile production is at a new peak since August, 1937; railroad inquiries and orders are slightly heavier, and several large projects involving fabricated plates and shapes have been placed or are pending. Needs of miscelanneous users are steady."

The decision to extend current prices through the first quarter of 1939 was expected by the industry, Steel said. The action is expected to stabilize orders and operations.

Shipbuilding continues to bolster prospective business in heavy steel products, the trade journal said. Four cargo boats to be built for the maritime commission will require about 16,000 tons of hull steel. A navy battleship will need 11,000 tons of miscellaneous steel, besides a heavy tonnage of armor plate.

Steel scrap is easier in most markets. Reductions brought about a drop of 21 cents in Steel's scrap composite to $14.75 a ton, the first drop since the first week of October.

40 COMMODITIES DROP TO LOWEST IN THIRTY YEARS

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—World prices of a group of forty basic commodities, measured in terms of prewar gold values, touched their lowest level in thirty years the week ended Nov. 26. This was disclosed today by an index compiled jointly by Cornell university and the General Motors corporation.

The index, based on 1910-'14 commodity prices in gold as 100, dipped to 60.4, compared with 60.7 the preceding week, and 71.0 a year ago. Gold was used for the comparison so that price swings in all countries could be made comparable despite currency fluctuations.

The index, made public today for the first time, is the result of more than a year of experimenting by the company and the institution. General Motors corporation provides the quotations which are adjusted by the university agricultural college. The index is based at the present time on prices in ten countries, weighted on a basis of total foreign trade.

Illinois Truck Control Bill Proves Puzzle

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 4.—A truck regulatory bill to be introduced in the Illinois general assembly next month has a provision for the establishment of minimum rates for local cartage, for line haulers, for metropolitan cartage and for agricultural coöperative carriers.

Newspaper reading masses need not be embarrassed in admitting bewilderment on questions of rate fixing. A legislative commission which drafted the bill also seems confused. And in a printed explanation of the rate provisions, some of the logic seems specious.

"Regulation of railroad rates came originally because the railroad was in fact a transportation monopoly and the public needed protection against rates and discrimination," reads a treatise prepared by the commission to be given to every member of the 1939 assembly.

Talks of Competition, Monopoly.

"Except where a monopoly is created by law," the paper continues, "the trucking industry cannot gouge the public by overcharging, since other forms of transportation and the private ownership of trucks prevent any such maneuver. The danger to the public in setting rates for trucks lies in the possibility that all rates will be frozen at the level of the highest cost of transportation."

These two paragraphs sound as if the commission, consisting of six members of each house, had decided after two years of study that competition would establish tarifs fair to the public and to the operators without any burocratic supervision. But then the brochure continues:

"The trucker, by being required to maintain his equipment in first class condition, by being required to provide financial protection for the shipper and the general public, and by a limitation of the hours of driving, is subjected [by the proposed new law] to a considerable financial burden.

Fair Competition Sought.

"In order to protect those operators who meet these obligations, it is necessary that their competitors be prohibited from operating at less than the necessary cost of operation. This section of the bill provides for only a minimum tarif rate covering the cost of operation plus a reasonable return on the investment."

Rereading these two paragraphs, it would seem that the legislative commission anticipates that it might have a little difficulty in enforcing its proposals for compulsory liability insurance, for compulsory semi-annual safety inspections of the vehicles, and for a minimum of twelve hours behind the wheel for any chauffeur. But this enforcement would be virtually automatic, these paragraphs imply, if the truckers are made to charge rates sufficient to finance the safety requirements. Some observers have raised eyebrows at this theory.

NATIONS LIMIT WHEAT BUYING TO BARE NEEDS

ManyCountriesLevy Tax on Imports.

The world's wheat supply and demand situation has become exceedingly complex. Purchase of grain by importing countries are being made to cover only bare necessities.

The leading countries of the world impose import taxes on wheat at the present time. In many instances the duties are supplemented by special taxes other than duties. Imports also are controlled by milling quotas, import quotas, licenses and permits, and outright monopoly control.

Published tarifs on the basic import duties in various countries fail to give a clear picture of what has happened in the last ten years. In theory there is no import duty on wheat imported into Denmark, Belgium, Ireland, Latvia, the Netherlands, Norway, and Russia.

In each country, however, government control and import quotas effectively limit imports. Denmark imposes a tax so that the internal cost of imported wheat equals the domestic fixed prices.

European demand for American corn is an important price influence on that grain. Supplies of old corn in Argentina are nearly exhausted. Brokers predict that importing countries will be forced to buy freely in the United States.

The range of prices on grain futures on the Chicago market last week follows:

	High.	Low.	Close Dec. 3.	Close Nov. 26.
Wheat.
December	$ .63⅜	$ .61⅛	$ .63⅜	$ .61⅜
May	.66⅝	.64⅞	.65⅞	.64⅞
July	.66⅝	.65¼	.65⅝	.65¼

Five Significant Years

COMMERCIAL • CHECKING SAVINGS • TRUSTS

● Five years ago today, the American National Bank and Trust Company moved to La Salle Street. Those were not cheerful days. No man knew what the next few years would bring. Today we look back on the last five years with thankfulness—thankfulness that we have been able to play our part in the progress business and banking have made in the city of Chicago.

Today, on this, the fifth anniversary of our opening on La Salle Street, we wish to express our thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors—to the banking institutions whose co-operation we have enjoyed; to the business men whose confidence has helped our deposits to grow from 14 million to more than 52 million dollars; to all those clients and customers we have worked with and served during the past five years.

In the years that lie ahead, we look forward to playing an ever increasing part in the growth and prosperity of Chicago...by continuing to render business, both large and small, the best service we know how to give.
